Elworthys Retain Big Interest

Pact Gives Island Tug World Scope

Operation Continues As Before

By IAN STREET

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. last night announced its "association" with towing companies based in Montreal and New York and said the new deal would result in expansion of operations based in B.C.

The agreement, signed yesterday in Victoria, follows months of negotiations. The deal involves transfer of an undisclosed amount of shares, according to company officials, but is neither merger nor outright sale.

SIZABLE INTEREST

Harold B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug, said local officers of the company have retained a sizable financial interest and operation of the company will continue as before.

"We are still very much interested financially," said Mr. Elworthy. He added the deal will make available heavy financial backing to ensure growth of the towboat operation keeps pace with industrial expansion in B.C.

EASTERN COMPANY

Island Tug and its subsidiaries on the coast are now associated with McAllister Towing Ltd. of Montreal. The eastern company is owned by McAllister Brothers Inc. of New York and Sogomines Ltd. of Montreal and certain of its associated companies.

The official statement said: "The joining-hands of these two large towing and marine transportation concerns, with their extensive fleets of modern tugs, barges, scows and salvage equipment, will provide combined services extending from the Gulf of Mexico to Montreal through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes on the east coast, and from South America to Alaska on the west coast."

EXPAND SERVICES

It is the plan of Island Tug and McAllister to expand their towboat and barge services, with "particular emphasis" in the British Columbia area, and in world-wide ocean towing and salvage operations, the statement said.

It continued: "The Elworthy family and present personnel of the company will continue to manage Island Tug and Barge Ltd."

Mr. Elworthy declined to comment further at this time on planned additions to the fleet operating in the Pacific.

30 TUGBOATS

Island Tug now owns and operates more than 30 tugboats including three powerful ocean rescue tugs—Sudbury I, Sudbury II, and Cambrian Salvor—and has a fleet of some 100 barges.

McAllister interests own some 50 tugs and 100 barges plus salvage equipment. They do all the ship-handling in the port of Montreal and work in the St. Lawrence Seaway as well. Their U.S. operations are based in New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk.

SIGNED YESTERDAY

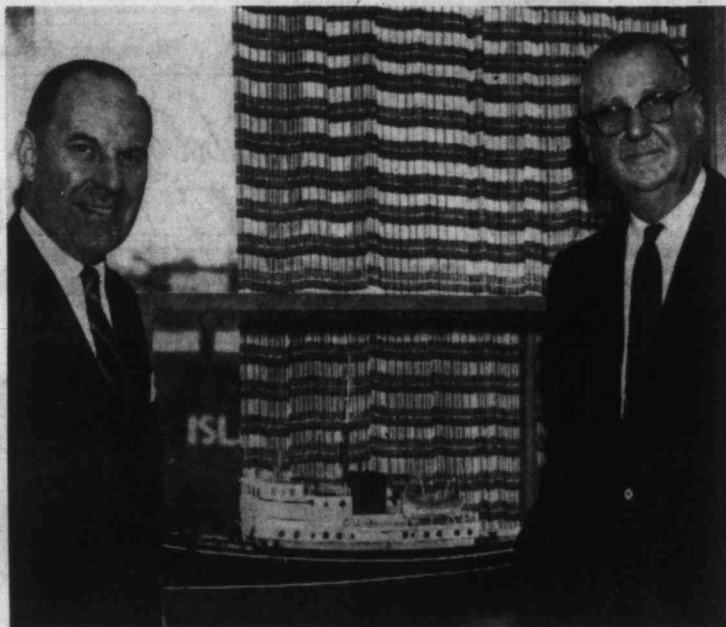

The agreement was signed here yesterday by Mr. Elworthy and James P. McAllister, president of McAllister Brothers Inc., New York, and the Montreal company. The Royal Trust represented the local company in negotiations.

The new deal "rounds out" operations of the two groups, officials said. The McAllister operations heretofore were "more or less local" in scope. They gain connections with Island Tug's far-ranging ocean rescue and towing operations while the local company gains eastern affiliations plus financial backing.

POWERFUL BOATS

Rapid expansion by Island Tug in the past year or so has seen acquisition of two of the world's most powerful tugboats, the sister ships Sudbury II and Cambrian Salvor, observed in the skies over Alaska early Monday morning.

Unite Behind Disarmament Green Urges

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada must have faith in disarmament if this country is to make its greatest contribution to world affairs, External Affairs Minister Howard Green said last night.

UN Blames Israel For Clashes

DAMASCUS, U.A.R. (UPI)—A United Nations truce committee last night formally put the blame on Israel for recent troop clashes in the Syrian-Israeli demilitarized zone around the village of Tawafik, a United Arab Republic military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the committee had decided to "condemn" Israel for having stationed military or semi-military forces in the demilitarized zone and for its "attack" on Tawafik last month.

The mixed armistice committee, headed by a Belgian colonel, supposedly includes both Arab and Israeli representatives.

Pension Planned For Mrs. Sloan

A bill to provide a $3,500.35 annual pension to Mrs. Nancy Sloan, widow of the late Hon. Gordon Sloan, was introduced in the legislature yesterday by Premier Bennett.

The premier explained at a press conference the pension is the same she would have received from the federal government had the former chief justice died before he had resigned to take on the job of B.C.'s chief forestry adviser.

"We regret exceedingly the federal government would not grant this pension," he said. "The chief justice was one of our great citizens. He was only in our direct service for a year."

Afro-Asians May Seek UN Censure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—A 29-nation Afro-Asian group began a survey last night to decide whether to summon the UN general assembly into action to seek a censure against France for its atomic test in the Sahara desert.

U.S. Aids Canada To Atomic Power

OTTAWA (CP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will spend $5,000,000 in a new program of direct aid to Canada in the development of the Canadian-designed heavy water atomic power plant.

This was announced here Tuesday by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. following meetings in Washington between the U.S. commission and the Canadian crown company on an expanded program of co-operation between the two countries in the development of plants using heavy water.

The announcement followed criticism in recent months by outside experts of Canada's decision to build atomic power plants using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as the control and heat-transfer agent.

J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada, said the decision by the U.S. commission is an indication of its interest in the Canadian program.

Free Vote?

Hanging Debate Assured

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker yesterday offered to set aside a second day for the debate on capital punishment scheduled to begin Thursday in the Commons.

If the debate on a bill of Frank McGee to abolish the death penalty was not completed Thursday and all parties agreed, the discussion could continue Monday, the Prime Minister said.

"If the House so determines, a vote could then take place," he told the Commons.

He gave no indication of the government's views on a "free" vote in which individual members would not be bound by party lines.

Under ordinary circumstances, McGee's measure would be debated for Thursday only with the probability of being "talked out" without a vote. An extension of the debate for a second day would probably permit both an extensive debate and a vote.

Questioned by Liberal House leader Lionel Chevrier, the prime minister said he understood that Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, the government's House leader, had suggested to Chevrier and a CCF representative that the debate be continued Monday if all agreed.

"If that suggestion has not been brought to their attention, I do so now," he said.

Premier Plans Trip to Britain

Premier Bennett said yesterday he wishes to thank all his critics who are referring to his budget as an election budget.

But he appeared to rule out an early election by saying he planned a trip to Great Britain in May and June.

He said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had a difficult time criticizing the budget.

THAT'S WHY

"That is why he had to yell. He said a budget like this calls for an election. What does he mean by an election budget?"

A budget that the people would vote for?

The premier denied Mr. Strachan's charges the government had underspent on its estimates by vast amounts.

"The truth is that two years ago the government spent more than the original estimates. Last year estimates were $284,041,000 and actual expenditures $280,425,000, just $3,600,000 less than estimated, or 1 1/2 per cent. The year before we spent that much more than estimated."

"That is pretty good budgeting," the premier claimed.

He quickly changed the subject when a reporter started to suggest Mr. Strachan meant he had been diverting money scheduled for highways and social allowances to debt reduction.

NO SPEECHES

Speaking of his trip, he said if his health is in good shape then, he will take with him his executive assistant Dan Ekman, economic adviser J. V. Fisher and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

The trip will not be a speech-making trip, but rather one of conferences, he said. He wants to learn more about how to co-operate with Great Britain, and to encourage British capital and industry to B.C.

U.S. Team To Help In Attack

PUERTO MADRYN (UPI)—Argentine warships last night made fresh sonar contact with one of two hunted submarines in the Golfo Nuevo and attacked it with powerful American-made depth charges, officials said.

The action brought to an abrupt halt speculation that both unidentified subs, which have been hunted for the past 19 days in the Golfo Nuevo and adjoining Golfo Craker, had managed to escape into the open Atlantic. Last officially confirmed contact with the hunted vessels came Sunday.

TRAIL PICKED UP

Officials said the new sonar soundings indicated that the Argentine ships had picked up the trail of the underwater vessel which is known to have a damaged propeller from previous attacks.

It was learned on authoritative sources that the patrol ship King was first to detect the sub moving slowly along the bottom of the gulf. The King attacked and later was joined by the Murature.

REACHED VESSEL

According to one source, the Murature believed its charges had reached the vessel, but there was no confirmation of this.

Hitherto, the navy had been limited in the chase by outdated depth charge devices effective only to a range of 40 or 50 fathoms. Last night, however, the patrol ships were using modern, more powerful devices flown in last week by the U.S. Navy.

ON WAY

A team of U.S. Navy anti-submarine experts also were on the way to join the hunt as technical advisers after arriving in Buenos Aires earlier.

The scene of the hunt is on the Patagonian coast, 650 miles southwest of Buenos Aires. Argentine ships cut the waters of the Golfo Nuevo in circular patterns, dropping the drum-shaped depth charges with their powerful explosives. A full 90 per cent of the Golfo Nuevo patrol was centred at the north end near the mouth opening into the Atlantic.

Election Unlikely?

Premier Bennett returned to the legislature yesterday to present 10 bills for first reading.

"How are you today, Mr. Premier?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. "Feeling pretty good. I hear you made a good speech yesterday," replied the premier.

Mr. Strachan beamed. "But are you ready for an election?" he asked the premier. "No," was the reply.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PAY day should be the happiest day of the week. But the average man looks thoroughly miserable when he picks up his money.

Go into an office, store or industrial shop and watch the employees opening their pay packets. Nine out of 10 examine the cheque with a scowl, or they squint at the envelope as if a bad smell had issued from it.

The cheque always seems to be smaller than they had expected.

Why the sour looks? Inflation? The working man's greed? The boss's greed? It depends on your political and economic views.

But if you stand near enough to hear the muttering and snarling of the wage-earners, one word crops up again and again: Deductions. It is usually prefaced by other words. "These 1% deductions," is most commonly heard phrase.

People are annoyed, not merely by what they feel to be the small size of the cheque, but by the fact that so many hands have already cut slices from it.

They have no logical reason to be shocked by the deductions, since they knew about all of them in advance. They knew about income tax, union dues and the pension fund.

They signed up (perhaps under protest) to buy government bonds by installments, or to contribute to the Community Chest.

Since they knew about it, why are they disgruntled? Because the hole in the cheque is so big. It is such a size that they never can get used to it.

The wage-earner might be happier if he had all his pay in his hands for a minute, so that he could feel the texture of the banknotes, and enjoy the sense of ownership.

But when about one-third of his wage is filched away before he even cashes the cheque, he gets the notion that he never earned the money at all; that he is being beaten around by impersonal forces beyond his control.

He is right. The nibbled-down cheque is a symbol of our machine civilization.

Sometimes the wage-earner wishes that he had lived in the days when the pay was always in cash. It might have been a small sum. But as he walked down the street toward home (or the tavern) he knew at least that the coins jingling in his pocket were his own.

Plight of Miners Concerns John D.

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised Tuesday he will visit Elliott Lake, Ont., if necessary to find ways of easing effects of the "unfortunate dislocation" in the Canadian uranium industry.

The layoff of 3,300 workers at Elliott Lake in particular would be "a matter of continuing and first consideration" by the government, he told the Commons.

Rio Tinto Mining Co. president Robert Winters announced Monday the workers would be laid off over the next 18 months due to U.S. failure to pick up uranium options after 1962.

The House voted unanimously to send the case of a trading-stamp firm which reprinted an official Hansard report of a Commons speech to its committee on privileges for "appropriate action."

Murdo Martin (CCF, Timmins) suggested the move after withdrawing his proposal that the firm's president be censured by the House.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was accused of the "unpardonable repudiation and humiliation" of a cabinet minister by Quebec Liberal Lucien Cardin.

Mr. Cardin said Diefenbaker disclosed Canada's 10-point disarmament program one day after External Affairs Minister Green stated the government did not want to make the proposals public. Mr. Green called Mr. Cardin's claim "ridiculous."

The RCMP has been asked by the justice department to report on a smaller union's suggestion that the Seafarers' International Union has been practising intimidation on the West Coast, Justice Minister Fulton said.

Manitoba Tory Nicholas Mandziuk charged Liberal Leader Pearson's criticism of Canada-U.S. relations was destroying "the confidence of the Canadian people in the only ally that can defend this country."

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic yesterday challenged Iraqi Premier Kassem to link his army to that of the UAR to "smash Israel's dreams."

Sheep in Wolf's Clothes

LONDON (Reuters) — Men choose their clothes according to the degree of confidence in their sexual prowess. Supreme clothes-consciousness comes in the early years of manhood and tapers off after a male weds and becomes sure of himself, the report said. There is no need then to wear "love clothes."

From 40 to 50, the report added, the male becomes worried about his own physical powers again. He resorts to brighter ties and gayer clothes to compete with the young blades.

The report was prepared by a psychologist for the Wholesale Clothing Manufacturing Association.

Carole Forgot Finch

'Didn't Think of Him' After Shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Carole Tregoff said Tuesday Dr. Bernard Finch apparently was not the most important thing in her life because she didn't even worry about him after the shooting of the surgeon's wife.

The 23-year-old model survived with surface composure a blasting cross-examination by prosecutor Clifford Crail at her trial with the doctor on charges of slaying Mrs. Barbara Finch.

But she fell back again and again on the phrase, "I don't know," as Crail pointed out inconsistencies in her story and behavior.

Crail asked Carole about hiding for six hours in the bushes next to the Finch home after Mrs. Finch was shot July 18.

POLICE THERE

Police were swarming around the home. Crail asked Carole why she didn't go to them if it was Mrs. Finch who first drew the gun.

"I don't know. I was scared. I was frozen."

Q — You were afraid of the police. Why?

A — I don't know. I was completely horrified.

Q — Weren't you curious about what had happened to Dr. Finch?

A — No, I didn't think about him.

Q — You were madly in love with him, weren't you?

A — I was in love with him.

Q — You wouldn't go so far as to say "madly"?

A — I was in love with him.

MOST OF ALL?

Q — You were more in love with him than any other man in all your life?

A — After what I had seen, I wasn't thinking about being in love.

Q — He was the most important thing in your life, wasn't he?

A — Apparently not if I didn't think of him.

The doctor looked more worried than at any time in the trial as he listened to Carole's testimony, which ended yesterday.

Strachan Will Be Haunted Just 'Like Marley's Ghost'

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan stoutly defended the increased home-owner grant in the legislature yesterday, while the CCF opposition heckled and shouted for a reduced school mill rate, relief for farmers and a bonus equitable to all citizens.

"It is true there are many prosperous home owners, to whom a home-owner grant will mean little," Mr. Kiernan

A bill to change the title of Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan to minister of mines and petroleum resources was introduced.

The bill is complementary to a suggested amendment to the Department of Mines Act changing the name of the department.

Another bill would increase borrowing powers of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway up to $140,000,000 and another the borrowing powers of the Toll Bridges and Highways Authority to $120,000,000, both up $20,000,000.

Cedric Cox (CCF, Burnaby) told the legislature yesterday there is no doubt there will be an election in B.C. this year, because "The Indian giver has appeared once more."

He said he, along with many others, will gladly accept the $50 home-owner grant, "but I do not agree with the principle."

The legislative standing committee on agriculture "has no useful purpose any more," Opposition leader Strachan said yesterday following a brief meeting.

Mr. Strachan, a member of the committee, said there is nothing for the committee to do and "we have had two meetings and nothing has been referred to us."

Health Minister Eric Martin will lead off the budget debate in the legislature at 2 p.m. today. Other speakers are Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), Frank Richter (SC, Similkameen), and John Tisdale (SC, Saanich).

admitted. "But there are thousands of very humble home owners in this province." Mr. Kiernan didn't agree with Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's view that the home-owner grant should be abolished and the money used to increase social allowances. "I think that statement by the leader of the opposition will haunt him and his party like Marley's ghost for many a day," he said.

The CCF says B.C.'s contingent debt is far too high, and then advocates measures which would make it far higher. H. J. Bruch (SC, Esquimalt) said yesterday.

After criticizing the contingent liabilities, he said, the CCF "tell us to take over the B.C. Electric with its $800,000,000 cost," and to develop the Columbia and Homathko and then the Peace on the people's credit.

World Refugee Year

ALTHOUGH Canada was among the first countries to participate in the organization of the World Refugee Year, and has since interested some 40 welfare groups in an effort to see what can be done privately to help, the appeal seems to be dragging. As yet there has been only a meagre and disappointing lead from the federal government as to what might be done nationally. It is true that the Dominion has said that it will receive 100 tubercular refugees and set up special arrangements for their treatment and eventual cure. But what are a hundred individuals among thousands? Similarly this country has offered its placement services to selected refugees who by their skills can qualify for immigration. Sincere as they are, both are tiny gestures.

The refugee problem has been whittled down in the last decade. That it is still a formidable one can be sensed from the official figures. There are a million homeless people in the Middle East, for whom immigration is out of the question; another million in the Far East, mainly in Hong Kong, under similar disabilities; 130,000 refugees in Europe, of whom 32,000 are in postwar collection camps, where they are fed but have no homes. In Hong Kong also there are approximately 10,000 White Russians, still without land or living rights. Broadly speaking only two of these groupings might prove assimilable in Canada: the European and White Russian blocs. Concede that this is a residual problem, it is still a vast and perplexing one.

Rather than a timid gesture to take 100 tubercular refugees from Europe, could not Canada if need be accept 2,500 of them; bring them to the Dominion, isolate them in specially organized sanatoria, and turn the wit, brains and ingenuity of Canadian medicine to work on the task of their permanent cure? Even if nothing else could be offered, that would be an offer in keeping with the magnitude of the problem. Likewise, regarding the fit and able-bodied refugees still encamped in Europe, a few thousand of them distributed among the trade and technical schools of this country could be absorbed without real difficulty. This nation could afford the costs, and these in large measure would prove to be recoverable as such action matured and was rounded off.

Guiding the Young

MUCH interest will attach to the report which the legislative committee on juvenile delinquency is expected to present at the present session. It has been studying the problem for two years and the fruit of its research doubtless will envisage a new approach and the wider use of provincial and municipal resources to guide the footsteps of wayward but not necessarily bad youngsters.

Modern society with its varied range of interests, its laxity in home example and tuition, its diversified attractions, presents temptation in a guise unknown in older days. There are more ways to slip from ethical standards than before, and the line of demarcation is not always clear to youthful unformed minds. It is guidance and understanding that constitute the criteria.

The recent series of articles on the subject printed by this newspaper, the result of an earnest probe into the factors governing the behavior of errant youngsters, highlighted some of the redress that seems to be required. Chief among remedial measures is a classification centre which will overcome the lack of court uniformity at present inescapable, and separate offenders according to their degrees. First offenders are not hardened delinquents, for instance, and should not be lumped with those set in erring habits. Nor are emotionally disturbed young people to be regarded as other than psychological patients.

Broadly speaking there is pressing need for more foster homes, more probation officers, more and reclassified correctional institutions, and an extension of the family court system which this area for one is about to have established. Greater emphasis should be placed on the responsibility of parents, and the co-ordination of community measures designed to keep young people on an even keel before they become immersed in wrongdoing.

Since the Colonist articles reflected the view of welfare, police, institutional and other officials, it is likely that the varying factors discussed are those which have occupied the legislative committee during its deliberations. All those concerned in the general problems of juveniles will look forward to concrete recommendations being made and subsequent government action to implement them.

TV in the Schools

NOW that the provincial department of education has refused to participate in a Victoria experiment with the use of television in classrooms, that should close the matter for the time being so far as the Greater Victoria School Board is concerned. It has been reported to the board that the department is interested in what S. J. Willis High School is trying to do; but the only kind of interest that appeals to the local taxpayers is the kind represented by the $ sign.

This is a frustrating and disheartening development for those who have spent much time and effort in studies of the use of TV in classroom instruction and were ready to pioneer it in this province. By all accounts television, properly employed, can be a valuable addition to present methods of instruction: for example, for simultaneous demonstration of laboratory experiments, giving pupils in several classrooms at once a clear and unimpeded view of what the instructor is doing. In the Victoria experiment there was no thought of substituting mechanical for human instruction but only, with the aid of TV screens, to improve on visual demonstrations.

One would have thought that the department would have been more than willing to participate in this effort, in view of the advantages claimed for it. However, if the department will not share the cost of something which ultimately might benefit all the schools in the province the Victoria taxpayers should not be called on to pay all of it.

In swallowing their disappointment the proposers of the idea should remember that the department has taken unto itself full authority over what is taught in the schools and how it is taught, and the local taxpayers have more than enough to do to pay for their share of the cost. It is up to the board if it wants to branch out in this direction to convince the department that the experiment is worth while to the point of being worth the department's contribution financially. It isn't right for individual boards at local expense to start experimenting with new methods of instruction.

U.S. Proposals Awaited

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN proclaiming her disarmament suggestions, Canada may be placing herself in a strategically important position in which to influence an undecided United States on the final course to follow.

Five countries—Canada, U.S., Britain, France and Italy—are meeting in Washington in attempts to reach a unified Western approach to the 10-power disarmament negotiations with Russia and her satellites, opening at Geneva March 15.

Two of the countries—Britain and France—were quick to crystallize their ideas and now Canada has added her thoughts. But much to the chagrin of the Allies, the U.S. still has no firm proposals of its own, though American experts have been working at the subject for months.

Time is beginning to run out. Soviet Premier Khrushchev captured the initiative with his well-publicized massive plan for total disarmament during a four-year period. The U.S. has hammered at the need for foolproof inspection and control in any global program for reducing the arms race.

The U.S. also has made clear, in various statements, that such inspection and control must accompany each disarmament stage. On that there is no divergence in Western views. Even Khrushchev seems to be gradually dropping his opposition to stage-by-stage controls.

But where, apparently, the U.S. is slow in bringing forward concrete proposals on specific fields of armament in which reductions could be started.

Representatives of France and Britain arrived in Washington with proposals of their own—proposals which at first contained elements of conflict, but now are modified by significant points of agreement.

Thinking Aloud Conflicting Alliances

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MILTON wrote of the air being "filled with barbarous dissonance" and Shakespeare of "splitting the air with noise." None of them knew anything about dissonant sound.

They should have lived in the era of juke-boxes and record-players.

Noise, nevertheless, is a matter of degree and familiarity. The legendary pin which breaks the hushed silence—did anyone ever actually hear this pin drop, by the way?—might reverberate like the French Sahara atomic test; whereas a convoy of buses could pass unheard.

One gets used to certain sounds. The buses, for instance, happening to you live on a bus route, cease to impinge on the conscious because the subconscious absorbs them as an everyday affair to which it has grown accustomed.

It is the first-timer on a bus route who does not sleep easily for a few evenings.

One doubts it is the midnight air which makes boards creak and waken the householder in fright; the boards creak in sunlight also but the creak is part of customary daytime sound.

It goes unnoticed. Modern generations, one might suppose, bear noises more easily than their forefathers; musically at least surely, else public outcry would drown the totality of electronic sound that assails our ears today.

The oldsters were more fussy; silence for many of them was golden. The tick of a clock—single noise having no company of sound—could be torment.

The Montreal Gazette recalls the devious ways of some notables in search of quiet. Carlyle had a sound-proof attic built in his London home, only to be overcome by dead air and heat. Ventilation was not "functional" in his day.

Conan Doyle and Barrie could write in a room full of talking people, but Leech, the Dickens illustrator, was distracted by barrel-organs and hawkers in the streets. By contrast, De Lauro the painter was upset by the eerie stillness of a classroom once the students had gone home.

Churchill the Gazette cites as a person quickly irritated by noises, or at least certain noises. We all have our pet aversions. His secretary had to put fresh sheets in her typewriter without a crackle, and yet I suppose the Churchillian ears would welcome the loudest military barrage ever mounted—if it were on our side.

It was Churchill who one day rebuked a newsboy on the street. "Stop that whistling; it's a horrible noise," he commanded. The boy looked at him sideways as he passed and said: "You can shut your ears, can't you?"

One does learn to close one's ears to certain sounds. This writer can close his ears to a room full of bagpipes, for instance, which some people might imagine to be an impossible feat.

As a newspaperman, also, he can work with other typewriters than his own clicking; a situation which probably would have driven Carlyle, Leech or Winston Churchill, into a frenzy.

Simply because they were not conditioned to it.

Still and all it is not easy to become conditioned to the raucous, enervating, and all too overwhelming "musical" sound that beats on our ears almost everywhere we go nowadays.

A newsboy's whistle would be much more welcome.

IT would not surprise me if Mr. Khrushchev particularly welcomed the opportunity for his official visit to Indonesia this month. The current relations of his ally, the Communist government in Peking, with the Indonesian government—indeed with a number of Asian governments—must be a matter of much concern to him. A situation has developed in Asia which is invalidating all the premises upon which Soviet policy towards the area has been based for many years.

Mr. Khrushchev no doubt is confident that his personal influence and diplomatic skill will succeed in reducing immediate tensions and in finding some basis for the settling of immediate causes of dispute. And his confidence may prove to be justified. But the problem goes deeper than immediate disputes. These are merely symptoms.

For Moscow the worrying thing must be that a new factor has emerged of which neither Leninist teachings nor the policies which have been based upon them have taken account. This new factor is Chinese expansionism and colonialism as recently demonstrated in Tibet. And, coupled with this, the existence in a number of South-East Asian countries, particularly Indonesia, of large populations of Chinese immigrants. This, and the reaction to it of the indigenous peoples of the area, provides a new complication.

Chinese pressure and the presence of large Chinese minorities inevitably arouse anti-Chinese feeling. And since China is both Communist and a close ally of the Soviet Union, that

Inexcusable Mistake

An Experienced Hunter?

(From The St. Thomas Times-Journal)

A REPORT from the Elliott Lake area states that two men, both, according to the police, experienced hunters, were hunting and one shot and killed the other in mistake for a moose. The shot met the victim full in the chest and he died almost immediately.

The dead man was wearing a dark green coat.

We have never seen moose except in zoos, and none of them were green haired. They were brown according to our recollection, and almost as big as a horse. How anyone could mistake a man on two legs and wearing a dark green coat for a moose is beyond our comprehension.

No doubt there will be a lot of sympathy—for the man who fired the fatal shot. That is usually the way of things.

By W. N. EWER, from London has an effect on Soviet relations with the area. This complication may call for fundamental reappraisals of policy in Moscow.

Classic Soviet policy has had a dual—one might say a duplex—character.

On the one hand nationalist movements in "colonial" territories and nationalist regimes in "ex-colonial" territories must be encouraged, supported and patronized. This must be done in pursuance of the conflict with "imperialist" countries. Such movements and regimes must be taught to look to the Soviet Union as a friend and champion.

On the other hand "bourgeois nationalist" regimes must in due course be undermined and overthrown by Communist action. So Communist and "workers" opposition to them must be encouraged and assisted. Such regimes have to be treated temporarily as friends—until the time is ripe for denouncing them as "class-enemies." Then nationalism has to be branded as "the weapon of the peoples' enemies."

Guided by this duality of purpose Soviet policy vis-a-vis Asian national movements and national regimes has been changed and varied as tactical calculations seemed to require.

That has not at times been easy. But the new Chinese factor is making it vastly more difficult.

Indonesia is an outstanding example of this. The Moscow line has been one of over-friendship for the present Indonesian regime. The Indonesian Communist Party—the strongest in any free Asian country—has, under Moscow's guidance, been co-operating with the Sukarno regime, abstaining from serious opposition and calling for "unity against colonialism."

... By Giles

With the Indonesian and Chinese governments in something near to open conflict on the question of the rights and status of the Chinese settlers in Indonesia, the Indonesian Communist Party—and perhaps Moscow too—must find themselves in a difficult tactical situation.

The Indonesian government, with strong popular support, has been trying to loosen the quite considerable grip of the Chinese on the commercial life of the country. In particular it is trying to remove all "foreign" traders from the small towns and villages in many of which Chinese merchants and shopkeepers have had something like a monopoly.

This has brought resentful protests from the Peking government. Its motives are very understandable. There is a feeling that China has a duty to look after the interests of Chinese abroad. There is the calculation that these Chinese minorities can become a potent instrument in spreading Chinese influence all through South-East Asia. It is rather like the hazy attitude towards the "volksdeutsch"—the German racial minorities in Central and East European countries.

The motives on both sides may be understandable. But the conflict is there. And it places Mr. Khrushchev and the Soviet Union in a grave dilemma. Can he settle the conflict? How in the face of it is he to reconcile friendship with Indonesia and alliance with China? If a choice has to be made what shall it be?

But behind all this lies an even graver problem. How to revise the Leninist doctrine about Asian countries so as to take into account the emergence of this new factor which Lenin did not foresee: the emergence of a new and powerful Chinese expansionism and "colonialism" headed and directed by a Communist regime and the inevitable reaction of nationalism in South-East Asia to this threat.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

TWO retail merchants sitting across from me in the railway dining car were discussing the merits of large mirrors on the front of their premises and in their show windows.

"I had a good big mirror on my shop front for years," said one, "but I finally came to the conclusion that the women who stopped to look weren't looking at the merchandise. They were looking at themselves, and so were blocking the view of the public. And when you figure all the cost of that window-dressing, and equipment, and the damage to merchandise by sunlight and so forth, I figured that mirror was a waste."

"Well," said the other merchant, who was in ladies' wear, "I have had an entirely different experience. But I had good advice from one of the top men in our industry. He advised me to put a tall oblique mirror in my entrance, so slanted that women walking along the street could see themselves full length in it. I've got it big enough and conspicuous enough that nobody walking on the street can fail to see themselves, maybe for 15 or 20 paces. And when they see how dowdy they look, the women glance sideways, and there's my window full of the most attractive clothing of every description... My business went up 50 per cent after I put that mirror trap in."

For a Green Future

(From The Ottawa Journal)

WHEN a city grows, its parks and its green places must grow too. If it does not want to be choked it must leave room to breathe and relax.

The vigorous thing Metropolitan Toronto is doing now, thinking ahead to its needs 10 years off, is tripling the size of its park lands. The price it will pay for tomorrow's pleasure is high: $54,470,000 for new land along the Humber River, on the bluffs of Scarborough and on the Toronto Islands. But how much more would the land cost and, more important, what would be left if Toronto waited 10 years?

The present generation is often accused of leaving a legacy of debt to its successors. Here is one way to bequeath instead beauty and shade.

The Journal has long urged a more imaginative attitude to parks in the Ottawa area. The Gatineau Park is a rare gem, to be sure, but closer to home we are none too well off now and we will be still less so in the decades ahead unless we provide generously and wisely for future needs.

Quadrupled Taxes

Might I say a few words on Mr. Bennett's home owners' grant and my experience of it.

We own some property at Langford. We owned this under the Coalition and Liberal governments and were twice visited by the tax assessor under those regimes and the taxes were never changed. We paid $13 a year.

The first year Social Credit took office they jumped to $45. My neighbor's went from $54 to $98; my other neighbor's from $27 to $58.

My own taxes now stand at $54 and my assessment has increased $815 this year. If any good Social can explain to me where I am getting anything I would be greatly obliged.

Welding the Peoples

The letter of R. Bonne re "Borrowed Flag" is a surprising document. First he says there is nothing Canadian about it, despite the fact it prominently carries the Canadian coat of arms. Then he says it belongs to the British merchant marine. I remind him that the red flag also belongs to Russia and to several other nations. He claims to have English forbears but evidently wishes to cast them off when he says: "A distinctive Canadian flag would weld us together, whereas the . . . the distinctive English flag, instead, divides . . ."

The Union Jack is definitely not the English flag; it is the British flag. Furthermore, far from dividing people, it is proof of the opposite. It is composed of the crosses of St. George of England, St. Andrew of Scotland and St. Patrick of Ireland. Its background of blue represents the oceans over which the British have not yet lost control. The Union Jack is therefore a sterling and quite evident example of a welding of peoples rather than a dividing.

My idea of a Canadian flag is the Union Jack with a large green or autumnal colored maple leaf in the centre. All the world knows what the maple leaf represents.

In my opinion most foreigners come here for sanctuary and to escape oppression of some degree. They look to the Union Jack as a sure provider of decent treatment. Leave it alone.

Queer CCF Talk

It appears Mr. Strachan is worried about the way the government is squandering the taxpayers' money, especially the $50 to homeowners, which he said should have been paid to old-age pensioners.

This is a queer statement coming from a man who is supposed to be a champion of labor, who are also home owners and so are most of the pensioners and those that are not are given $20 a month in addition to the federal pension if they need it.

This is a lot more than the CCF are giving in Saskatchewan or any other provincial government. Furthermore a lot of the pensioners are better off than many of the homeowners due to the fact that everyone gets the pension at 70, whether they need or not.

Easy Purchase of Guns Rapped by Barrister

Lawyer James Proudfoot in city court yesterday rapped severely the ease with which it is possible to purchase small arms and ammunition.

He was speaking on behalf of his client, Victoria Louis Schubert, charged with common assault of his wife, Juliana, by striking her and pointing a gun at her during a quarrel Jan. 23.

Said Mr. Proudfoot: "It is a shocking fact that any man can go into a sporting goods store and buy a revolver and shells."

He said he was informed that in this case the gun was not loaded, but that did not alter the gravity of the overall situation.

Magistrate Ostler suggested, and Mr. Proudfoot agreed, that a psychiatric examination of the accused be made before sentence was determined. Schubert was remanded accordingly to next Monday.

William Ernest Green was found guilty by Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich police court yesterday of carrying a firearm without a permit. Green and a companion were checked by Saanich constables in the 3,800 block of Carey Road at 2:25 a.m. Jan. 24, and the weapon, an automatic pistol, was found in Green's pocket.

Cpl. Frank Briers told the court he found the pistol only after several minutes of questioning, during which it had not been mentioned.

Green, a Work Point soldier, said he and a companion had been at a house in Saanich drinking beer with acquaintances. An argument developed between his friend and "the man at the house," during which the latter produced this weapon and pointed it at Green's friend.

When Green interceded, the gun was pointed at him, so he struck the holder and a brief struggle followed during which both men rolled down the basement stairs.

Green said he took the pistol, intending to turn it over to army authorities when he returned to Work Point, and he and his companion left the house.

"Your behavior—except for taking some beer when you left the house—was quite excusable," Green was told by the magistrate. "However, you should certainly have told this story to the police at once. If you had, you'd probably have found them co-operative and you might not be in this trouble." He was fined $25.

Attitude of a man charged with impaired driving in city police court yesterday won the approval of Magistrate Ostler.

Tory Attack

South Africa Under Fire

LONDON (CP)—Two news items, tucked away in the small print on the back pages, emphasized Tuesday the growing divorce of South Africa from the rest of the Commonwealth.

One was an article published in an obscure journal called Common Sense suggesting that South Africa may have to be "jettisoned" from the Commonwealth this year unless she modifies her apartheid racial policies.

The author, Conservative MP Sir Godfrey Nicholson says either the Commonwealth is multi-racial, or it is not worth preserving.

"My view is that the interests of the Commonwealth as a whole outweigh the value of including South Africa within it. If we cannot build up and maintain a multi-racial Commonwealth while one member of that Commonwealth pursues the policy of apartheid, then that one member may have to be jettisoned."

The other item involved, the decision of the Cambridge University African scholarship committee to withdraw an award to an African student because South Africa refused to allow the winner a passport.

In withdrawing the award after 14 months of negotiation, the Cambridge committee comments that the South African decision to boycott academic intercourse "cannot fail to cause dismay in the rest of the Commonwealth."

The scholarship now will go to a candidate from one of the British territories of Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Basutoland.

'Too Much' Cries Congress To Ike's $4,175,000,000 Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's $4,175,000,000 new foreign aid request went to an election year Congress Tuesday and, as expected, ran immediately into a cry of "too much money, too little change in administration."

In his 5,000-word special message, Eisenhower said the mutual security program is essential to peace and to world progress in freedom in the face of the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

"Collective security is not only sensible—it is essential," he said.

The request for new funds was divided $2,000,000,000 for arms aid to American allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance. The total is almost $1,000, 000,000 more than the $3,200,000,000 Congress voted after a hot debate last year.

Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, made the remark about too much money and too little change in administration and added:

"Where is the joint foreign aid effort, with the other free nations assuming their share of the burden?"

"Where are the plans for a progressive reduction in grants as distinct from loans? Where is the progressive shift from

The developments follow Prime Minister Macmillan's "wind-of-change" speech at Capetown.

Macmillan's visit and the liberal approach shown by Colonial Minister MacLeod have left the plain impression that Britain is not likely to be deflected from a determination to see the native peoples ultimately play a full role in the government of African territories now under British jurisdiction.

Writing in the right-wing Daily Mail, commentator Henry Fairlie detects a glimmer of hope.

Just back from covering Macmillan's tour, Fairlie said he heard over and over people saying:

"Something is beginning to move . . . Minds are at last on the move . . . Apartheid is today more widely questioned than ever before."

The need for more public golf course facilities in the area was endorsed by the members of the Victoria District Golf Committee at their annual meeting last week.

While there is still accommodation for a few senior members at two of the local clubs, a tight situation exists for junior players, many of whom now play most of their golf on Cedar Hill.

The committee was interested in the suggestion that part of the Beaver-Elk Lakes parkland should be turned into a public course, and they decided to give all assistance in their power to help along such a project.

It is felt that Beaver-Elk is an extremely desirable spot for a golf course, as it lies directly on the main road leading from the new provincial ferry terminal and the Pat Bay Airport to Victoria.

A well-laid out course there would draw the attention of tourists to the fact that Victoria is one of the golfing capitals of the world offering pleasant playing facilities practically the year round.

The idea is one that should commend itself to the city's active tourist trade industry.

A. V. Macan, Canada's leading golf architect already has a plan for the lay-out of a nine-hole course, and much of the necessary drainage work was done more than 30 years ago, and completion of the course was delayed only by the depression of the 1930's.

The committee felt that a public course could be operated by private enterprise on a long lease from the city (owners of the parkland), that would provide reasonable-priced golf for juniors and others interested in taking up the game.

AGREEMENT NEARER—Hopes that the Victoria District golf lessons for juniors will this year be extended to take in girls as well as boys, took a brighter turn Monday night, when members of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union and the local ladies captains met the Victoria District committee headed by Ken Lawson.

The ladies expressed a desire to participate in the program which last year attracted more than 200 boys from senior and junior high schools. Ways and means of raising funds for the purpose were discussed, and a definite decision has been promised within two weeks.

Funds for the boys are provided by the B.C. Golf Association, who last year contributed $400 to the local program. The B.C. division of the CLGU has no immediate funds available for such a purpose, but the Victoria clubs believe they can raise sufficient money to make sure that this year the girls will not be excluded.

The details of the new development program will be announced early in March, but it is the intention of the Victoria District Committee that the courses will once again be held by the professionals at the various local clubs.

NEW CHANCE FOR KERR—Because of the heavy rain and extremely soft condition of the course, the winter medal round at Gorge Vale was postponed Sunday, and will be played next Sunday at the same course.

The draw and starting times will remain unchanged, but if Laurie Kerr, who is in joint leadership with Bill McColl, is able to play this weekend he will be included as a post entry. Kerr did not enter last week because he was working on that day.

MANY HANDICAPS SLASHED—Apparently I was a little too quick in remarking last week that the new handicap system would make little difference to the individual player. Now that the captains of the various clubs have got down to work, the analysis apparently is that while the low handicaps are changed but little, those with higher handicaps have suffered cuts, some as much as six or seven strokes.

The reason is that while the old handicap chart was based on a 100 per cent allowance over the course rating, the new chart allows only about 85 per cent of the difference.

Gordon Pellow, captain of Uplands tells me that he has checked handicaps for more than 400 members, and of these only two have had their handicaps increased. A few have remained unchanged, but the majority have been lowered between one and three strokes.

Gorge, another course where the rating is unchanged reports a similar experience, but at Victoria and Colwood where the course ratings have dropped one stroke, this fact has done something to neutralize the effect of the new chart on the individual handicaps.

The new course ratings are—Gorge Vale 71 (unchanged), Colwood 70 (down one), Uplands 70 (unchanged) and Victoria 68 (down one).

Under the new system it seems that a player can get a true handicap only if he enters all his scores—the high ones as well as the low. Previously when only the low five of the last 25 rounds counted this was perhaps not so vital as it is now when the count is extended to the ten low.

Speaking Briefly

Eddie LeBaron Quits

Eddie LeBaron has retired from the National Football League after spending eight of the last nine years as first-string quarterback with Washington Redskins.

LeBaron has signed a three-year contract as scout for the Washington team in the southwestern part of the United States.

LeBaron intends to practice law in Medford, Texas.

Coach Mike Nixon says he considers LeBaron, who spent one season with Calgary of the WFL, as one of the finest players he has known in 20 years of coaching.

Mount Douglas Girls Face Victoria High

Local rivals Mount Douglas and Victoria High meet today at 5:15 p.m. at Mount View with the winner advancing to the Vancouver Island inter-high school senior girls' basketball final at Ladysmith Feb. 26 and 27.

Both schools won opening round games of the Lower Island tournament that opened Tuesday afternoon at Mount Douglas.

Mount Douglas turned back Mount Newton 25-17 while Victoria High edged Milne's Landing 33-25.

Leading Mount Douglas to its win was Sylvia Wedman with 14 points while Carol Casto added eight. Harriet Forsburg and Marilyn Rile had seven each for the losers.
Victoria High used a 13-point performance by Susan Mason to defeat Milne's Landing. Marilyn Pearson had eight points.
Milne's Landing and Mount View meet at 4 p.m. in a consolation final.

Martin Rink Tied For Second Place

Shirley Stephens, N.W.
Frances Turner, Trail

VERNON, (CP)—Ina Hanson, Kimberley's perennial zone champion and veteran of provincial curling wars, staked a strong claim for the British Columbia Ladies' Curling Association championship here Tuesday by whipping Flo Gustafson of Prince George 15-1.

It was the first loss for the northern zone winner in four starts in the round-robin series to determine the B.C. representative to the Western Canadian playoffs in Victoria next month.

The knockout-style East Kootenay foursome ended the day's play atop the standings with four wins and a loss.

NEXT BEST

Next best was Victoria's Flora Martin and the Gustafson rink. Each had three-and-one records and were unbeaten at the end of Tuesday's competition.

Wednesday's action has Hanson drawing a bye and a clash between Gustafson and Martin in the afternoon draw.

Victoria housewife Flora Martin dampened the hopes of South Okanagan representatives Mille Topham from Peachland in the last draw Tuesday with an overpowering 14-4 bulge.

Earlier she fell 10-9 to the Hanson rink. Vancouver's highly-fancied Betty Tansley carried a disappointing display into the second day by dropping an 8-6 decision to Gustafson early Tuesday.

FOURTH DRAW

Hanson 10, Martin 6
Gustafson 8, Tansley 6

Arnie Schmutz Hurt In Winnipeg Victory; Out for One Month

WINNIPEG—Victoria Cougars lost the services of Arnie Schmutz for at least a month when the hustling right-winger suffered a hairline fracture of the skull Tuesday night during a Western Hockey League game at Winnipeg.

Schmutz was injured during the opening minutes of the game that Victoria won 3-1. Winnipeg defenceman Gary Bergman knocked the Victoria player to the ice with Schmutz hitting his head during the fall.

Manager-coach Hal Laycoe of the Cougars contacted by the Colonist by telephone reported that Schmutz was resting comfortably at General Hospital in Winnipeg.

"The doctor who is looking after Arnie told me the fracture is a minor one. Arnie will be in the hospital for a week and the doctor said that it is doubtful if Schmutz will be able to play within a month," said Laycoe.

Schmutz also received a mild concussion from the fall. But, added Laycoe, "He asked who had won the game as soon as I arrived."

As Cougars opened their second and final Prairie swing of the season last night, Schmutz was the second highest scorer on the team with 22 goals and 34 assists.

Schmutz was cut and knocked unconscious during the collision with Bergman and was carried from the ice on a stretcher. He was immediately rushed to the hospital.

Don Blackburn replaced Schmutz on a line with Gordie Fashway and Art Jones. It was Blackburn who scored the Cougars' insurance goal in the second period.

Gerry Goyer, pressed into regular action as a ninth forward, and George Ford scored the other Victoria goals as Cougars built up a 3-0 lead after two periods.

Gordie Redahl scored Winnipeg's only goal on a power play at 7:22 of the final period. Goyer gave Victoria a 1-0 lead at 12:38 of the first period, ramming his own rebound past Winnipeg goalie Al Rollins. The first shot by Goyer had struck a post and rebounded directly in front of the net.

It was Goyer's first goal since joining Cougars from Seattle two weeks ago. Ford, and then Blackburn, who scored on a screened shot that deflected in off a defenceman's stick, put Cougars ahead 3-0 after the second period.

Goalie Marcel Pelletier played a big part in Victoria's win, blocking 24 shots while Rollins handled 22 for Winnipeg.

The win left Victoria in fourth place with 62 points. Cougars trail third-place Seattle Totems by one point but have two games in hand over the U.S. club.

Cougars and Winnipeg meet again Thursday night at Winnipeg. Laycoe has not yet decided if he will make any changes for that game.

"Goyer played very well and I think he will be a big help to us. I'll probably use Blackburn on the line with Fashway and Jones and put Goyer between Anderson and Macaulay," said Laycoe.

ARNIE SCHMUTZ ... out for month

Achtymichuk Scores 'Hat'

EDMONTON—Centre Gene Achtymichuk fired his first hat-trick of the Western Hockey League season Tuesday night in leading Edmonton Flyers to a 7-3 win over touring Spokane Comets before 2,673 fans.

Edmonton's 30th win of the season moved Flyers into second place in league standings, one point ahead of the idle Seattle Totems.

Roger DeJordy, Pete Gogan, Ed Diachuk and Warren Hynes scored the other Edmonton goals, while Eddie Stankiewicz, with two, and Al Johnson scored for Spokane.

DeJordy also had four assists as did Church Holmes, third member of a line with the former and Achtymichuk.

the three games they've played.

Northern Ontario's latest victory was 7-5 over Ontario. The Dryden-high school entry, skipped by Ken Davis, broke up a tough battle with three in the eighth end and one in the ninth. Ontario's Bob Estall, from Kingston collegiate and vocational institute, scored one in the 10th end, but couldn't force an extra end.

Saskatchewan's Bedford Road Collegiate rink from Saskatoon, skipped by Dale Hoffman, also had a hard fourth-round fight. They were trailing New Brunswick, by 4-2 after four ends, then scored three on the fifth end to regain the slim lead they snatched at the start. They kept it from there.

In other fourth-round play, Alberta trounced British Columbia 12-2, and Prince Edward Island went past Nova Scotia 11-9. Newfoundland had the bye.

Selling Wave Hits Stocks At New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—A late selling wave hit stocks on all fronts, dropping industrial shares to a 10-month low in their average.

However, activity picked up noticeably on the decline giving traders cause to hope that the long-awaited selling climax may be under way.

Such a climax, the experts believe, would give the list a firm base from which to launch a new and sustained rally.

The severity of the 1960 sell-off was reflected in the number of new lows touched—100—as against only three new highs for the year.

Steels Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices tumbled heavily in light trading.

Standard Structural Steel however gained 1/4 at 16 1/2. Steel of Canada plunged 3/4 at 75. Dominion Foundries slipped 1/4 at 45. Atlas fell 1/4 at 24 and Algoma declined 1/4 at 33.

Aluminum was up 1/4 at 30 1/2 in base metals, Hudson Bay down 1/4 at 48. International Nickel off 1/4 at 100 1/2 and Noranda down 1/4 at 42 1/2.

BA Oil was down 1/4 at 30 1/2. Imperial Oil was up 1/4 at 33 1/2 and Texaco off 1/4 at 51.

Weakness Prevails

TORONTO (CP)—Industrial and base metals took a pasting as the stock market declined in all sections amid moderately heavy trading.

International Paper took the biggest industrial loss going down 1/4 point at 103 1/2. Bank of Nova Scotia dropped 1/4 at 62 and Eddy Paper fell 1/4 at 26.

Mines took a beating. Hudson Bay Mining fell 1/4 at 47 1/2. McIntyre-Porcupine was off 1/4 at 25 and International Nickel went down 1/4 at 100 1/2.

Western oils were down. Royalite and Bailey-Selburne each lost 25 cents at $7.30 and $6.70.

Late Price Rally

VANCOUVER—The tendency was lower although most stocks were above their lows for the day at the close.

Westminster Paper at $36. Crown Zellerbach at $18 and MacMillan-Powell at $16 held firm, but Woodward's eased to $17 and Trans-Mountain to $10. Trans Canada was weak at $22 1/2.

Giant Masco, Pacific Nickel and Silbak Premier continued the most active of the mines, all dropping slightly during the session. Coppers were firm at their recent low levels.

B.A. Oil closed at $30 1/2 after dropping to a low of $29 1/2.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—Most sections of the bond market were slightly easier.

Short-term Canadas were easier by 5-10 cents, recent provincials off 1/4 and long CNRs down 1/4. Short-term CNRs, long-term Canadas and most corporates were unchanged.

Dividends Higher

Dividends paid by Canadian companies in the first two months of 1960 constitute a record for the period at $114,219,922. The total for the corresponding two months of 1959 was $108,933,005. February payments, at $40,467,904 were up from $36,740,909 a year ago.

New Corporate Body Formed

Rio Tinto Licks Wounds

By HARRY YOUNG
 Colonist Business Editor

With the hopelessness of the present market situation staring it in the face, the great Rio Tinto Company of Canada is gathering the bruised remains of its uranium empire into its new corporate body to be known as Rio-Algom Mines Ltd.

The shareholders of the individual Rio Tinto companies are to be asked to accept new Rio-Algom shares in exchange for their old.

The exchange basis will be 165 shares of Rio Algom for each 100 held.

Milliken Lake Uranium Mines: 14 Rio Algom for each 100 held.

Northspan Uranium Mines: 13 Rio Algom for each 100 held.

Pronto Uranium Mines: 35 Rio Algom for each 100 held.

While Algom shareholders will have the majority of the stock of the new company, shareholders of the other three tariff walls, European companies are making nearly as determined a frontal attack on the North American domestic market.

Investor's Reader of New York in its February edition notes that among the European companies which have planted themselves inside the United States are Imperial Chemical Ltd. and Courtaulds of Britain; Badische Anilin- und Farbenfabriken-Bayer of Western Germany; and Monte-

Carini Mining and Chemical companies are making nearly as determined a frontal attack on the North American domestic market.

These companies represent some of the most aggressive and resourceful of the European chemical and synthetic fibre manufacturers.

They are building US plants despite higher labor and material costs because entry into the billion-dollar American markets more than offsets additional expenses, according to Investor's Reader.

Municipal Costs

Shift Load
Reeve Urges

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton last night said he will launch a strenuous effort to shift the emphasis of intermunicipal financing from population to assessment.

His statement came at the conclusion of a Saanich finance committee meeting at which he repeatedly propounded his belief that as long as municipalities derive their revenue from assessment they should relate their share of intermunicipal costs to assessment.

He made no secret of the fact that Saanich would save money if relative assessments were used to determine intermunicipal costs in Greater Victoria, but said that was secondary to his belief that per capita cost sharing is contrary to municipal financing procedures.

On the strength of his argument, the finance committee tabled further action on applications for contributions to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, St. Joseph's Hospital building fund, Victoria Public Library and the Victoria Symphony Society, and referred them to the intermunicipal committee.

Reeve Chatterton will propose to the intermunicipal committee a "compromise" cost-sharing formula which will require that half of each municipality's share be determined on a per capita basis and half on a relative assessment basis.

Finance committee also moved to oppose the basis of an Oak Bay offer to contribute towards the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee at the rate of 25 cents for each school pupil.

"Why pupils?" asked Reeve Chatterton.

Churches Should Willingly Pay Tax
Not Ask Exemption, Councillor Says

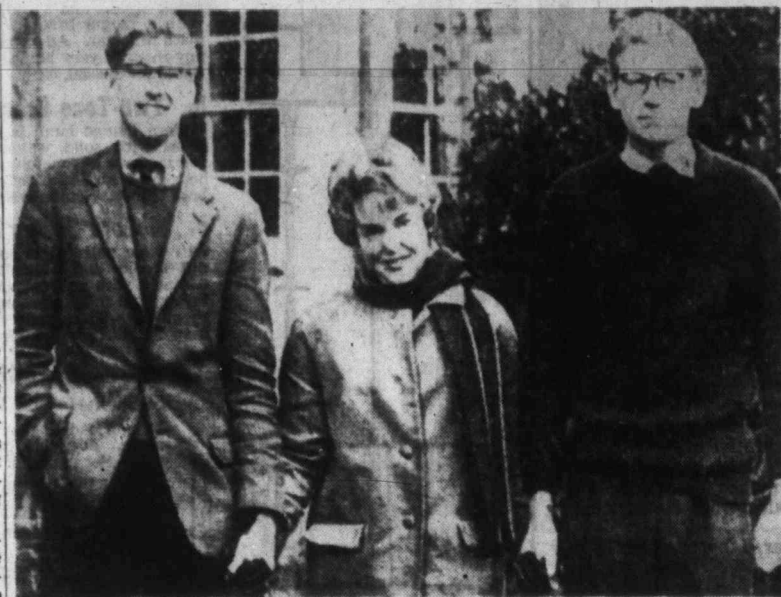

Churches should be setting an example to taxpayers by not asking municipalities to waive taxes on church halls, a Saanich councillor said last night.

At a finance committee meeting Coun. Leslie Passmore told a spokesman for Saanich churches "you shouldn't be coming here asking for charity, you should come and say 'we know that municipalities have to have taxes to operate and we will pay our share.'"

Rev. T. D. B. Ragg of St. Luke's, Cedar Hill, said that four Saanich churches pay taxes on their halls, while the remainder do not.

But Coun. Passmore said to the request that taxes be waived on the four, "I am opposed — once you start, where are you going to stop?" Asked by Reeve George Chatterton how he reconciled this view with the fact that Saanich has waived taxes on Scout halls, he replied that Scouts can't raise money as easily as churches can.

Subject to a report on church hall taxation from Saanich Comptroller John Tribe, Reeve Chatterton indicated he might support the move to waive church hall taxes if the churches agreed not to set rental fees for their facilities and filed annual financial statements showing that the halls did not operate at a profit.

Women Officials' 'Funny Ideas'
Leave Ejected Alderman Fuming

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—"That's the trouble with women in that type of office," said Alderman Lewis Sangster yesterday. "They have funny ideas on how to run things."

The partially crippled alderman, a stormy petrel in city politics for years, was still fuming about being carried bodily from a council meeting Monday night at the orders of Mayor Beth Wood. Shouting, kicking and struggling, he was carried out of council chambers in the arms of two policemen after losing a bitter argument with an equally furious woman mayor.

Rothmans expansion

Growing success in Canada offers immediate openings for executive minded men who reach for challenge

A Message from the President:

"As a member of the World's swiftest growing and most successful cigarette organization, founded in 1890 and established in Canada in 1957, we are proud to announce that the two intentions with which we came to Canada are on the threshold of fulfillment.

These were, first, to create here in a placid industry a dynamic new force staffed by Canadians and second, when success had crowned our efforts to offer stock participation to Canadians.

Now we seek to double our organization and are extending an invitation to vigorous Canadians to join us and share our progress."

New Groups to Receive
Home-Owners' Grant

Premier Bennett introduced in the legislature yesterday the bill to boost the provincial home-owner grant.

The premier explained the bill provides that the grant go to every homeowner if he lives in his home, no matter how many rooms he may rent.

If a homeowner owns an auto court and lives in one for his home, he may claim for the grant under new amendments.

The grant is extended to people who operate stores and live in attached living quarters and to individual owners of suites in co-operatively owned apartments.

Road to Mainland Big Issue in '70, Says Gaglardi

Within 10 or 15 years a road link between Vancouver Island and the mainland will be under active consideration, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi predicted yesterday.

"I wager that within 10 years from right now, people will be talking about building a causeway," he told the Victoria Electric Club.

"By the time there are barnacles on the bottoms of those old ships (the new ferries) we'll be thinking of means of linking up Vancouver Island with the mainland . . ."

That didn't mean he was starting tomorrow to train moles to dig a tunnel, he said, but a road link would be in the realm of economic possibility in 10 or 15 years and would someday, he was sure, be built.

The government ferries,

Mr. Gaglardi said, were going to bring "a fantastic number" of people to Vancouver Island. "I'll tell you the increase in the amount of people coming to Vancouver Island in the summer time is going to be beyond anything you can visualize at the present time. I'm positive.

"It's only going to cost you $5. No, I don't know what it's going to cost you. But you can afford it."

The greater amount of vehicular traffic on the Island would necessitate construction of more highways, Mr. Gaglardi said.

The road to Tofino would be paved "in the not too distant future, I'm sure," and on the east coast, "it will be necessary to have a thoroughfare all the way up," and "I can see where we can have two or three ferry runs onto Vancouver Island." He foresaw accessibility to the upper east coast "in the immediate future. I don't mean next summer, but not too many summers, I'm sure."

And "if we can go to Sayward and Port Hardy, we ought to be able to come in from Kitimat with another ferry run."

City Slum Area Predicted If Older Homes Deteriorate

UBC Move

MLA Gregory Just Joking

Liberal MLA George Gregory last night said he was only joking when he suggested in the legislature Monday that the University of British Columbia's arts faculty should be moved to Victoria.

Informed that UBC officials were taken aback at the suggestion, Mr. Gregory said:

"I was not speaking seriously when I mentioned that. I was serious when I suggested that UBC should have been started in Victoria in the first place. It's too late to split it up now."

"Give us (Victoria University) 10 years with a four-year course and UBC had better watch out for its laurels," he added.

Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew, deputy president of UBC, yesterday said the whole idea was "completely impractical" because the arts and professional programs are interrelated.

Art Sager, secretary of the UBC alumni association, said "we see a future for a full liberal arts college in Victoria, but to take away UBC's art faculty would be taking the heart out of the university."

Get $250 Loot

Thieves Ransack Oak Bay Homes

Thieves made off with about $250 worth of jewelry from one of two Oak Bay homes broken into last night. Both homes were ransacked and clothing littered about the floors by the culprit in his apparent search for money.

Several rings and a pearl brooch, prized possessions of Mrs. George W. Robinson, were missing from their residence at 3069 Henderson. There was no money in the house at the time, said Mr. Robinson who returned about 9 p.m. from a church meeting.

A bedroom window had been "jimmied" and the culprit left by a basement door.

Nothing was known to be missing from a nearby home at 2199 Lansdowne, where Victor Oag said he thought he had startled the looter in the act of burglary.

Mr. and Mrs. Oag returned about 10:15 p.m. after having dinner out. Their residence was also in a shambles and a side door leading to a patio was open. A footprint was found near a wall by the patio. Entry here was gained by jimmying a rear door.

$109 Taken By Thieves At Bakery

Thieves made off with $109 from a cash register in a break-in last night at Stevenson's Bakery, 210 Menzies.

Owner Roy Small told police he discovered the robbery when coming on duty shortly before midnight. Entry was through a rear door which was forced.

Buttonholers Busy Today At Buildings

Members of the legislature will be buttonholed today by a delegation of about 70 members of the B.C. Peace Council who are marching on the legislature to lobby for an international ban on atomic bombs and for expenditure of Canada's military budget on development of the nation.

The delegation, from Greater Vancouver, the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island, will carry placards and parade through the downtown area before arriving at the legislature at 9:30 a.m.

Exemption Suggested

Donald Smith, (S.C. Victoria) warned yesterday that Victoria, in common with many other cities, is heading for a slum district if older homes are allowed to deteriorate.

But, he said, if owners do any improvements they are immediately charged with increased assessments and consequently increased taxes.

PENALIZED NOW

"We have a Do It Now campaign to relieve unemployment, but as soon as you do it now, you are penalized now," he said.

He renewed his plea for a plan to give owners of older homes some sort of tax incentive to improve their homes.

SEVEN-YEAR EXEMPTION He suggested a plan where an owner would get a seven-year tax exemption on the value of improvements he undertakes as long as he retains title to his home.

He said he was pleased the new home-owner grant regulations will call for a widening of the provisions to include owners of apartment dwellings.

FREE BUS PASSES

He said there was a need for free bus passes for pensioners who would normally be shut up in one room.

He expressed pleasure that Recreation Minister Earle Westwood was giving some consideration to the province taking over Thetis Lake Park as a provincial park.

LOSE NO TIME

He said he hoped Victoria would lose no time in getting the very best architectural design for its proposed new civic auditorium, to which Premier Bennett has said the government will contribute.

Original Kiwanians

Four original members of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, top to bottom, Judge J. B. Clearhue, Fred McGregor, C. J. McDowell, and Darrel Spence received 40-year membership certificates and buttons at the 40th anniversary club luncheon yesterday. Dr. William Hackney and Walter Walker were also awarded 40-year buttons.—(Colonist photo.)

'Very Upset,' Says Curtis

'Pennies for Peggy' Brings a Blush

Launched "to save the city further embarrassment," a Pennies for Peggy Packard fund yesterday gave promise of turning faces red all around.

"We're very upset about this stuff," said Ald. Austin Curtis, who was chairman of the royal visit committee which commissioned sculptress Peggy Walton Packard to produce a bust of Queen Elizabeth.

Mrs. Packard said she might have been a little rash in not opposing the drive.

And both Ald. Curtis and Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney said that it was based on misinformation: the campaign to collect a cent from everyone in Victoria to pay Mrs. Packard's $350 fee started out with the claim, "Six months have elapsed since sculptress Peggy Packard delivered to city council the concrete bust of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, which it commissioned last June at a fee of $350."

The bust was delivered Jan. 27, Ald. Curtis said; Mrs. Packard had sent a letter Jan. 15 saying the statue was ready and adding, "Interim account, $200," and as soon as a proper account was rendered, the city was ready to pay in full.

"And we certainly don't need the public to subscribe pennies to help us out," he said.

"Before the end of the royal visit year we asked for a bill in full so we could finish it up properly," said Acting Mayor Mooney. "Certainly as soon as the bill is properly presented, it will be paid."

"They're pushing things a little too far," he added.

Saanich finance committee last night voted to ask council to call tenders for purchase of a municipal ambulance which will cost an estimated $13,000.

The recommendation came following a statement by Fire Chief Joseph Law that people injured in Saanich are often taken to hospital in police vehicles which "are little better than trucks."

He said he had worked out an arrangement with Saanich Police Chief W. A. "Bert" Pearson whereby the fire department would take over the municipality's emergency ambulance service formerly operated by the police.

Interested Groups Invited To Tour with Edgelow

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow has invited "all interested groups" and individuals to join him on a tour of the "entire area" involved in the controversy over a powerline easement in Thetis Lake. "The city engineer and I will guide them all through the whole area—not just a part—at any time they see fit," the alderman said last night.

Shouting Match

Thetis Issue Put on Ice

Report Sought

The burning question of granting a powerline easement at Thetis Lake was put on ice yesterday.

In a meeting which briefly became a shouting match between Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and M. H. Mooney, the question was put aside pending a report from city officials on the best use of the Thetis Lake property—a report which City Engineer James Garnett said might take two or three months to prepare.

QUICKLY ACQUIRED

Before this decision was made, a B.C. Electric spokesman had told the joint meeting of city council parks and waterworks committees that one of the reasons the company wanted the easement along the edge of the property was that it could be acquired more quickly than privately owned property.

The shouting match started after Ald. Edgelow claimed the public had been misinformed by the conservationists—"You can use the sympathy of the public, and I think it's unfair to mislead it in any way."

Ald. Mooney, maintaining the property should be held as a park and recreation ground, asked if there should then be a "powerline through the centre . . ."

'OH, NOW!'

"Oh, now!" flashed Ald. Edgelow, rising. "That's a false statement, precisely what I meant."

"It's sure not going around the outside!" Ald. Mooney said.

"You're an irresponsible alderman. That's an irresponsible statement," shouted Ald. Edgelow.

"I'd like Ald. Edgelow to tell me, has he some connection, he so positively wants them to go through there?" said Ald. Mooney.

ORDER RESTORED

Then order was restored, and Ald. Edgelow said he had felt the granting of the easement for $5,200 was in the best interests of the taxpayers of Victoria, and could do no harm in such a remote area.

"My decision was made that way, and I felt I wasn't going to change my mind through the pressure of groups other than Victoria taxpayers," he said.

Pending receipt of the report, the committees shelved the question of offering the property again to the provincial government.

Ambulance Sought In Saanich

Saanich finance committee last night voted to ask council to call tenders for purchase of a municipal ambulance which will cost an estimated $13,000.

The recommendation came following a statement by Fire Chief Joseph Law that people injured in Saanich are often taken to hospital in police vehicles which "are little better than trucks."

He said he had worked out an arrangement with Saanich Police Chief W. A. "Bert" Pearson whereby the fire department would take over the municipality's emergency ambulance service formerly operated by the police.

Burglars Make Shambles of City Home

Looking as if a cyclone had struck it, Philip Young, 619½ Chatham, surveys a ransacked bedroom in the home of Henry Lou Poy, 2831 Blackwood, which burglars turned upside down sometime since Sunday when a last check was made by Mr. Young.

The damage was discovered last night. Every room in the house was a shambles, police said. The Lou Poy's are vacationing in Hong Kong. Officers did not know if anything was stolen.—(Colonist photo.)

TV-Teaching Group Seen in Passing

On the Spot Today

Greater Victoria school trustees will have to talk convincingly today if television classes are to start this year at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Representatives of Greater Victoria councils will meet the school board this afternoon to discuss the school board's $7,902,429 budget, and one of the items under closest scrutiny will be the $19,500 for installation of and operation of the pilot television system.

And, because the department of education has now said it will not contribute financially to it, chances of the plan being approved have diminished.

If any one of the four Greater Victoria councils says no, the money can't be spent, city council was told at its last meeting. At that time, majority of aldermen appeared opposed to spending local taxpayers' money on the experiment.

Garden Notes

Bored with Their Pets

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Judging by the mail coming across my desk these days, a lot of indoor gardeners who have been happily growing African violets in their homes are becoming just a little bit bored with their pets. In looking for new worlds to conquer, they are turning their attention to the gloxinia.

There are good reasons for this choice. The gloxinia makes a wonderfully spectacular houseplant, with large, erect, bell-shaped flowers glowing with exotic colors. Even the foliage is magnificent—big green leaves with a soft, furry texture, beautifully formed and gracefully placed on the plant.

When freshly bought from a florist, they are fully grown, mature plants with a few flowers open and an abundance of unopened buds. With a little intelligent care, the plant can be induced to remain in bloom for six to eight weeks, and may have as many as 25 glorious flowers open at one time.

While blooming plants are on the expensive side, excellent plants can be had by buying and planting the bulbs. These cost around 35 cents each, and are available from most garden shops from early February until late spring, and for my money, there is no cheaper or easier way to bring a touch of exotic, tropical beauty into the home than to buy and pot up a couple of these capsules of loveliness.

Some good named varieties are Waterloo, with dark red velvety blossoms; Emperor Wilhelm, purple bell-flowers with a white margin to the petals; Emperor Frederic, red with a white border; Etoli de Feu, a very bright scarlet; Tigrina, which may be almost any color, but with the blooms heavily spotted with contrasting shades, and Mont Blanc, my own favorite, with lovely pure white flowers.

While these could be started any time from February to May, I think the sooner you get your bulbs planted, the better. Gloxinias are unhappy out of the ground, even during their resting period. If you are the fortunate owner of a lot of bulbs, they could be rooted in flats of damp peat moss before planting up, but for one or two bulbs, you might as well get them into their permanent pots right away.

Use a five- or six-inch pot, scrubbing it thoroughly in hot soapy water. New pots should be soaked in water for an hour before filling. Cover the hole in the bottom with a bit of broken flower pot placed concave side down, then add an inch of broken charcoal and fill up with a rather coarse, fibrous, humusy soil.

The purchased African violet soil with a little peat moss added is just about ideal for gloxinias. Make the soil only moderately firm with the fingers and plant your tuber with a covering of only about half an inch of soil over its top surface. The soil surface should be half an inch below the rim of the pot to allow for watering.

When the potting is completed, give one good watering with lukewarm water—the gloxinia detests chilling—but water with extreme caution thereafter until top growth commences. Like all bulbs, gloxinia tubers will rot at the drop of a hat if kept in soggy soil before they have made any active roots.

After the leaves have formed, the plant likes plenty of moisture and it is best to give enough so the soil is moist all the way through, but give no more until the surface soil feels dry to the touch. I prefer top watering for gloxinias, but use a can with a spout to avoid wetting the furry leaves.

The plant likes a pleasantly warm room, 60 to 70 degrees, but not the fierce heat near a radiator nor a spot where it will become chilled overnight. A good light is necessary, but very little direct sunshine.

King Says Goodbye

With Risque Asides

No Paar but No Censors

NEW YORK (UPI)—The "Jack Paar Show" went on last night without Jack Paar and without censorship.

Artist-author Alexander King made his swan song as a guest on the show "until Jack comes back" with a broadside verbal barrage on censorship and television programming.

King spiced his defence of Paar with risque references to semi-nudes and charged that television shows today "are for morons and backward children."

National Broadcasting Company censors started the controversy last Wednesday when the network cut five minutes from Paar's show deleting a joke about a W.C. — water closet. Paar quit the program the next night in protest.

Announcer Hugh Downs, substituting for the missing star last night, faced a sea of "Come Back Jack" buttons that adorned the lapsels of the studio audience.

Downs said he was not there to take over the show from Paar but to carry on for him.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Paar has agreed to return to his late night television show on Monday, March 7, the National Broadcasting Company announced yesterday.

Another guest, Dody Goodman, a former regular on the show who got into a feud with the temperamental Paar and was dropped, showed up wearing one of the large "Come Back Jack" buttons.

In King's appearance — which amounted to almost a 15-minute soliloquy interspersed with commercials and station break cards which read "Jack Will Be Back"—he said talent must have the freedom to express itself without interference from "button-pushers" or censors.

"I never heard of people with talent censoring talent," he said.

King told of the retouching of a semi-nude sketch used to advertise the play "Reclining Figure" in newspapers. The original sketch, King said, was nude from the waist up but one newspaper (The New York Times) had the artist retouch it to cover her nudity.

"They made him put a brassiere on her," he said in exasperation. later, however, the newspaper went back to the original sketch, he said.

King's descriptive terminology in discussing the sketch and other incidents had an immediate effect on the studio audience. Some women gasped with surprise at his blunt language. Others coughed nervously.

Downs appeared uneasy and nodded in agreement when King said to him: "You know me, I just say anything that comes into my head."

King said NBC had not asked him to avoid discussing the Paar affair or censorship in general.

"But I'm not coming back on until Jack comes back," he added. "Until then, I'll see you in church — or perhaps a wayside chapel." This last was a direct reference to Paar's water closet joke that caused the split between the star and the network.

Other guests on the program included actor Peter Lorre and Helana Carroll.

Compromise Only Way

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Steve Allen and wife Jayne Meadows get 50 per cent of the profits from their movie, "College Confidential," for producer Al Zuckersmith. The picture is due to start Feb. 23—unless the actors go on strike. And if they do, all the major studios will close down tighter than a drum—and some of them won't reopen. I believe there will be a compromise between the actors and the producers—there has to be.

Brigitte Bardot's younger sister Mijanor is not too easy to understand in "Sexpot Goes to College," and her lines are being dubbed in by Rhoda Williams, who also does the English-speaking for sister, Brig.

Re Bardot, Charles Boyer, who made "La Parisienne" with Bardot, is plumping for her to co-star with him in "Fanny." If Brigitte's English isn't good enough, her curves certainly are.

John Wayne is optimistic about his expensive "Alamo" picture. He just gave wife Pilar a diamond necklace.

Young stars Susan Kohner and George Hamilton are putting on a romantic act just to please their bosses.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr. bought a 1936 Packard Phaeton 10 years ago from a character in Connecticut who said, says Efrem, "I'd like $350, but son, from you, $300." Junior put $3,000 into the auto, and is still driving it.

William Saroyan took 12 unproduced plays with him to London. He feels the Beatniks here have taken away his trade.

Anna Neagle never reads the reviews of her movies or plays. Which makes her a smart lady, because some of the things the critics in England write about her would break her heart. Mary Pickford is the only other strong-minded star I have known who never read the columns or the reviews.

Tom Tryon is in the money. He gets $3,000 a week from Walt Disney six months of the year for his "Texas John Slaughter" series and his performance in "The Story of Ruth" brought him a long-term, two-picture-a-year contract from 20th Century-Fox. His private life is also good—twining with Israeli actress Elana Eden.

After seeing sexy Angie Dickinson in Warners' "Bramble Bush," I couldn't help thinking that in the old days in Hollywood, Angie would have been as big a star as Clara Bow or Jean Harlow. What a figure and what projection of female-ness!

This is a rumor I don't believe—that Yul Brynner is quitting the movies to concentrate on his special post with the United Nations. Yul has acting commitments for the next two years—and he likes to make all that lovely money.

Eve Arden wears a grey wig for her role in "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." "I look a little like my aunt," says Eve, who commutes to Warners from her Hidden Valley farm, built originally by Ronald Coleman as a hideaway from Hollywood.

It pays to be Perry. Raymond Burr, getting rich from his ownership of the Perry Mason series is sinking a big chunk of his earnings into Bahama land, near other landowners Noel Coward and Pat Wymore.

Nanette Fabray and her director husband Randal MacDougal were bedded with flu at the same time. Said Nan: "We believe in togetherness, but this is ridiculous!"

Nurse Provides Trained Help

By EDITH HENRY

Parents can't work alone in bringing up children in our complex society. They need help from trained people. Among the public health nurse ranks high.

She is the connecting link between a great body of medical knowledge concerning children, and the home where she can show how this knowledge may be put into practice.

The origin of her work runs back into the past. In 1816 in London a Dr. Bunnell Davis founded his dispensary for sick and indigent children.

In connection with this, he established a system of health visiting to the children of the poor, carried out by "benevolent ladies."

From such enterprises our system of public health nursing has evolved. There have been changes—the nurse, retaining the quality of benevolence, has added her professional training.

She is now interested not only in the poor, but in every child within her district. Her work is more and more concerned with the preventive aspect of medicine, rather than with disease.

A large part of her program must be taken up with education. This requires of her a confident spirit, patience and courage. She sees the lighter side of life, too.

"Mother sent me," announced a small boy one day to the nurse in charge of the inoculation clinic. "Please, is this where I can get intoxicated?"

A public health nurse begins her teaching with the pregnant mother. Later she watches over the general care and feeding of the infant, and she sets up a preventive program.

She supervises the health of the child at school, stressing his food, the clearing up of defects while they are still minor, and again prevention.

In some communities her work extends to the secondary school where, through teaching the adolescent, she can influence the good health of children yet to be born.

What's Cooking!

Salad Greens Best Chilled

By LOUISE MOORE

Some time ago I read that bad-tempered people are more susceptible to disease. But if the surly bird catches the germ, it may be through a faulty diet rather than temperament.

Too many starches and sugars and not enough of the leafy green vegetables and sun-ripened fruits make for an unbalanced diet—and since many of these leafy greens lose much of their precious vitamins through cooking, they should be eaten raw whenever possible.

Lettuce, watercress, spinach and other greens are excellent sources of vitamin C—and A and B in fair amounts while tomatoes and green peppers are outstanding sources of vitamin C.

Alternate fruit and vegetable salads.

The secret of successful salad making lies in the crisply chilled ingredients, the right dressing, tossing it together with the ingredients to avoid that matted appearance—or serve the dressing separately in another dish if you wish.

For a successful green salad have the salad bowl well prepared in advance by crushing a clove of garlic with the thumb and forefinger in the bottom of the bowl and then rubbing it around every bit of the inside surface.

Add chilled orange pieces to tossed green, chef's salad or cole slaw salads. They give a tangy refreshing note you'll enjoy.

Marinate green onions in lemon juice while tossing the rest of the green salad. Add onions the last moment for that elusive flavor.

To keep green salads crisp, freshen in cold water with a little lemon juice.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My problem concerns my son who is eight years old. When he was a baby the boy's father left us. I had to have him traced at considerable expense, then go to court and force him to support us.

Two years ago I remarried. My present husband is a decent person and a good provider. He's wonderful to my son. My former husband is remarried also. His wife is a barfly and they are well known to every tavern-keeper in town as a pair of undesirable characters.

My former husband has not once come to see his son, sent him a card or gift, or even phoned to see how he's getting along.

The problem is that the boy keeps nagging me to see his real father. He has tantrums and crying spells. Do you think I should let him visit his father for a weekend so he'll get it out of his system? — OUT OF MY MIND.

Little Sister Blabbed

Dear Ann: I'm a high school senior going steady with a girl who is a junior. We get along great and she helps me with my homework. Also she's a good dancer.

Her sister is 14 and sort of a pest but she is smart for her age. Last night the kid sister called me on the phone to tell me my steady had accepted a date with a guy from out of town. He was here for the weekend visiting his roommate. I'm all shook up. I probably look like a punk to her after dating a college man.

Shall I tell my girl I know she two-timed me or what is Can't Wear Makeup?

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and have a good figure and nice features. My complexion is sensitive and I break out from any cosmetic I put on my face. Even nail polish gives me hives. I look like a ghost without lipstick. I will bless you forever if you can help me. — MESS OF A MISS.

Dear Mess: I will not give you the trade names, but there are cosmetics on the market manufactured for people with your problem—and there are millions of such people. I might add, Your druggist or dermatologist can direct you.

FULFORD TEA

A Valentine tea and sale of work will be held at the home of Mrs. Cliff Lee, Wednesday, Feb. 17, at 2:30 p.m., sponsored by the Burgoyne Bay United Church Ladies' Aid.

ALPHA GROUP

Plans were made to provide tea and entertainment for Silver Threads group on Feb. 17 at the meeting of the Alpha Group of Metropolitan United Church W.A. Members also volunteered to help with the rummage sale to be held March 3. Tea was served by Mrs. B. Parsons and Mrs. E. Parsons.

A man who could ignore his son for eight years has demonstrated he has no interest whatever in the child. How could your son profit from a weekend with him?

Tell your boy you've lost contact with his real father and that he probably doesn't know where you are either. Encourage the step-dad to give him extra affection until he's over this emotional hump. In a few years he'll be old enough to know the score.

Warm winters and chilly summer days are several degrees apart in temperature but thin jersey material is a good weight to wear for both.

Bright striped sweaters and cardigans from Italy are now in one store here, selling for $2.99. These are easily washed and a good buy if you like the unusual combination of colors.

Something else new in sweaters are imports from Japan. Soft and extremely smart button cardigans with flattering neckline and embroidered pattern on the front, are $12.95 to $13.95. They are a mixture of live in, pleasant though it is, is not exactly tropical. We still need sweaters, lots of them, all year round.

Other exciting imports for the balmy summer, we hope is ahead of us, are Hawaiian coolie jackets. Mandarin shape they team with button up skirts and snappy shorts, pedal pushers and slim slims, all fastened with a pineapple button. Expensive but fun.

How would you like to buy a Hawaiian swim suit, without even stepping off Vancouver Island. They are here, costing $19.95.

Californian swim suits have arrived too, selling for $12.95 to $16.95. Now is the time to take your pick.

Knitted jersey suits from Italy, are also striped, very hectically, in three tones.

Missionary Tells Of Great Changes

Victoria Presbyterian held its 46th annual meeting yesterday in St. Andrew's Church Hall. Reports of activities of Auxiliaries in many parts of Vancouver Island were presented.

Membership has increased during the last year particularly among the children's groups. There were seven new life memberships presented, one of which was given to Mrs. David Murphy on the eve of her departure for British Guiana.

COLLECT $2,282

The treasurer reported that a total of $2,282 had been collected by the auxiliaries during the year.

Supplies given to St. Andrew's Welfare Association for distribution included clothing from Victoria and Port Alberni and two quilts from Erskine and St. Paul's. Some supplies were being sent to Formosa Relief organization.

Guest speakers at the Presbyterian were all from Vancouver. They were Mrs. E. P. Fox, B.C. Synodical president, Miss M. Nutt, regional secretary and Miss Ellen Douglas, a former missionary in India.

Miss Douglas, who has spent 30 years teaching among the aborigines of Central India expressed the meeting with the great changes which had taken place during that time.

When Miss Douglas first arrived in India she found that very few children reached matriculation standard in their education. Now there are many university graduates working in their own local schools and hospitals.

Her work was among the Bhil peoples, simple farmers, who lived in India before Hindus and Mohammedans.

Working in a princeling state, Miss Douglas found that the ruling Rajah took a fatherly interest in the welfare of his people, helping them when crops failed. That was feudalism at its best. Today a government is unaware of local disasters and the people suffer from the "tangles of red tape."

NEW OFFICERS

President of the Presbyterian, Mrs. F. O. Jenkinson was re-elected. Other officers for this year are Mrs. J. L. W. MacDonald, life membership; McLean, vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Cox, recording secretary.

Mrs. H. Warren, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. C. Scott, treasurer; Mrs. A. B. Harvey, publicity; Mrs. C. Summers, Evening and Young Women's Auxiliaries; Mrs. P. S. Watt, children's department, Mrs. H. Calderwood, supply; Mrs. W. Hogg, glad tidings; Mrs. D. A.

MacDonald, life membership; Mrs. P. Jonge, welcome and welfare and Mrs. W. A. Dempsey, home helpers.

Italian Sweaters Selling for $6.99

This so-called "banana belt" we live in, pleasant though it is, is not exactly tropical. We still need sweaters, lots of them, all year round.

Warm winters and chilly summer days are several degrees apart in temperature but thin jersey material is a good weight to wear for both. Bright striped sweaters and cardigans from Italy are now in one store here, selling for $2.99. These are easily washed and a good buy if you like the unusual combination of colors.

Something else new in sweaters are imports from Japan. Soft and extremely smart button cardigans with flattering neckline and embroidered pattern on the front, are $12.95 to $13.95. They are a mixture of live in, pleasant though it is, is not exactly tropical. We still need sweaters, lots of them, all year round.

Other exciting imports for the balmy summer, we hope is ahead of us, are Hawaiian coolie jackets. Mandarin shape they team with button up skirts and snappy shorts, pedal pushers and slim slims, all fastened with a pineapple button. Expensive but fun.

How would you like to buy a Hawaiian swim suit, without even stepping off Vancouver Island. They are here, costing $19.95.

Californian swim suits have arrived too, selling for $12.95 to $16.95. Now is the time to take your pick.

Knitted jersey suits from Italy, are also striped, very hectically, in three tones.

Danube Isn't Blue—It's White

Never blue, the Danube River is usually muddy-colored—but, these days, it's pure white. This ice-breaker is crunching through the thick cover at Vilshofen, West Germany, to break up ice jams which could cause severe floods when the thaw comes.

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
NANAIMO - ISLANDS ELECTORAL DISTRICT

BRIDGE PROJECT NO. 331
NANAIMO LANDING FOR GABRIOLA ISLAND FERRY

CONTRACT NO. 1 - GENERAL

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed tenders, marked "Tender for Project No. 331—Nanaimo Landing for Gabriola Island Ferry—Contract No. 1," will be received by the Minister of Highways in his office at the Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., up to 2:00 p.m. (Pacific Standard Time) on Wednesday the 24th day of March, 1960, and opened in public at that time and date.

Plans, specifications, and conditions of tender may be obtained from the Department of Highways, 635 Burrard Street, Vancouver 1, B.C., or from the undersigned for the sum of ten dollars ($10) which is not refundable.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque or a bid bond in an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the tender price. This cheque or bond shall be forfeited if the tenderer declines to enter into contract.

If a bid bond is used, a performance bond in the amount of one hundred per cent (100%) of the tendered sum, in a form acceptable to the Minister of Finance, must then be provided by the successful bidder prior to the award of the contract. If a deposit cheque is used it shall be retained and forfeited if the contractor fails to carry out the work contracted.

Tenders must be made out on the forms supplied and enclosed in the envelope furnished.

Tenders must be submitted with their tenders, a list stating the type, capacity and present location (so that inspection can be made if necessary) of the equipment in their possession or at their disposal which is immediately available for the carrying out of the work within the time limit specified without in any way curtailing or delaying any Departmental project that may be under consideration at this date. No tender will be considered which does not contain this information.

No tender will be accepted or considered which contains an option clause or any other qualifying condition and the lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

It is preferred that tenders be submitted with their tenders a schedule of proposed construction operations showing estimated monthly progress for each phase of the construction work.

Inter-Racial Marriages Urged for Royal Children

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng. (AP)—A Presbyterian clergyman has urged the Queen to encourage her children to make inter-racial marriages.

Writing in his parish magazine, Rev. William H. Barbour, 47, said:

"Christian people must not be unwilling to marry Chinese, Indians or Africans or we shall never solve the color problem."

"It would be a wonderful help and inspiration if our Royal Family, who are themselves good Christians, would give a lead to us, their subjects, and fellow Christians."

First of Eight

New Scout Council Formed This Week

First of eight new district councils of the Boy Scout Association was formed at a meeting this week.

The new council will be known as Fort Victoria.

The new organizational program is designed to stimulate greater boy and adult interest in Scout activities.

Previously one district council served the Greater Victoria area. From now on there will be eight sectors.

President of the newly-formed council is Ald. M. H. Mooney.

Other officers include Frank Crocker, vice-president; C. J. Williams, secretary; E. V. Darling, treasurer; and J. C. Hawkes, badge secretary.

J. P. Fawcett, B. N. Inglis, F. M. Shandley, and G. Whiteaker, were appointed to the executive.

G. W. Oliphant was named district commissioner and Winnie Lees, district Cub master.

Hydroplane Speed Mark By 'Thrifty'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—The unlimited hydroplane Miss Thriftyway roared to an unofficial world record of 192,001 miles per hour Tuesday over a measured mile course on nearby Lake Washington.

Driver Bill Muncy hurled the Thrifty at 192,513 miles an hour on one jaunt through the timing traps and made the required return trip at 191,489.

This bettered the mark of 187,627 for the full mile, set by the Hawaii Kai III in 1957.

Muncy did not, however, threaten the Kai's official world speed mark for propeller-driven boats. This is 195,329, set in 1957 over the shorter kilometre course.

The Thriftyway's time for the kilometre was reported as an average 189.588.

The world record for all types of boats is held by Douglas Campbell of England, who drove the jet propelled Bluebird 260.35 miles an hour.

Bomarc to Get Another Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—Qualified informants say the controversial Bomarc "B" missile is to undergo another test in about two weeks.

The test is crucial for the Bomarc "B"—planned for installation in Canada as well as the U.S.—has failed in its first six trials.

Britain Maps All-Out Bid To Win Race

LONDON (UPI) — Britain yesterday unveiled a nuclear space age armory of new weapons for its streamlined defence forces and claimed they would be among the best in the world.

A government white paper said the defence spending would be raised $324,000,000 to a record $4,529,840,000 one-third of the national budget.

The government said the new weapons included a stainless steel plane designed to combat the problem of heat in supersonic flight and two planes which take off vertically, still in the research stage.

The white paper said Britain, like the United States, was working on the problem of defence against enemy ballistic rockets.

LONG-RANGE ROCKETS

Britain also disclosed research on long-range rockets launched from planes or submarines to supplement the 3,000-mile Blue Streak missile designed for launching from underground pads.

The white paper said the government expected to order a second nuclear submarine next year. The keel for the first, the Dreadnaught, was laid in June.

Another disclosure was that the United States was helping Britain set up a ballistic missile warning system for this country similar to the North American "Dew Line" system.

SLASHING FORCES

Britain is slashing its armed forces from about 700,000 to a highly-trained 400,000 long-term service professionals by 1962.

Other new equipment being developed or already issued to the armed forces included a new main battle tank to replace the Centurion, a new 105-millimeter tank gun; the Australian designed Malkara anti-tank guided missile; the Thunderbird surface-to-air guided missile; the Sealslug and Seacat ship-to-air missiles for the navy, and the Bloodhound surface-to-air missile for the RAF.

STEPPING UP

The government at the same time is stepping up the supply of conventional weapons for the armed forces.

Poles Ask For Art

WARSAW (UPI) — Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki called on Canada Tuesday to return Poland's ancient art treasures, which he said were a "burden" hindering relations between the two countries.

In a foreign policy report to parliament, Rapacki hailed Canada's "lively and constructive" approach to world affairs, particularly at the UN.

But he made it clear Poland still is unhappy about the fact that priceless treasures of its old kings still are being held in Canada.

The treasures were moved for safekeeping during the Second World War. Some have been returned but most are under armed guard in the Quebec museum.

UN Official Planning Busy Visit

Peter Casson, special representative of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, will deliver six addresses during a busy two-day visit to Victoria beginning today.

He will speak to a public meeting in Memorial Hall on Vancouver Street at 3 p.m. today. His other talks, to the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Victoria branch of the UN Association come later in the day.

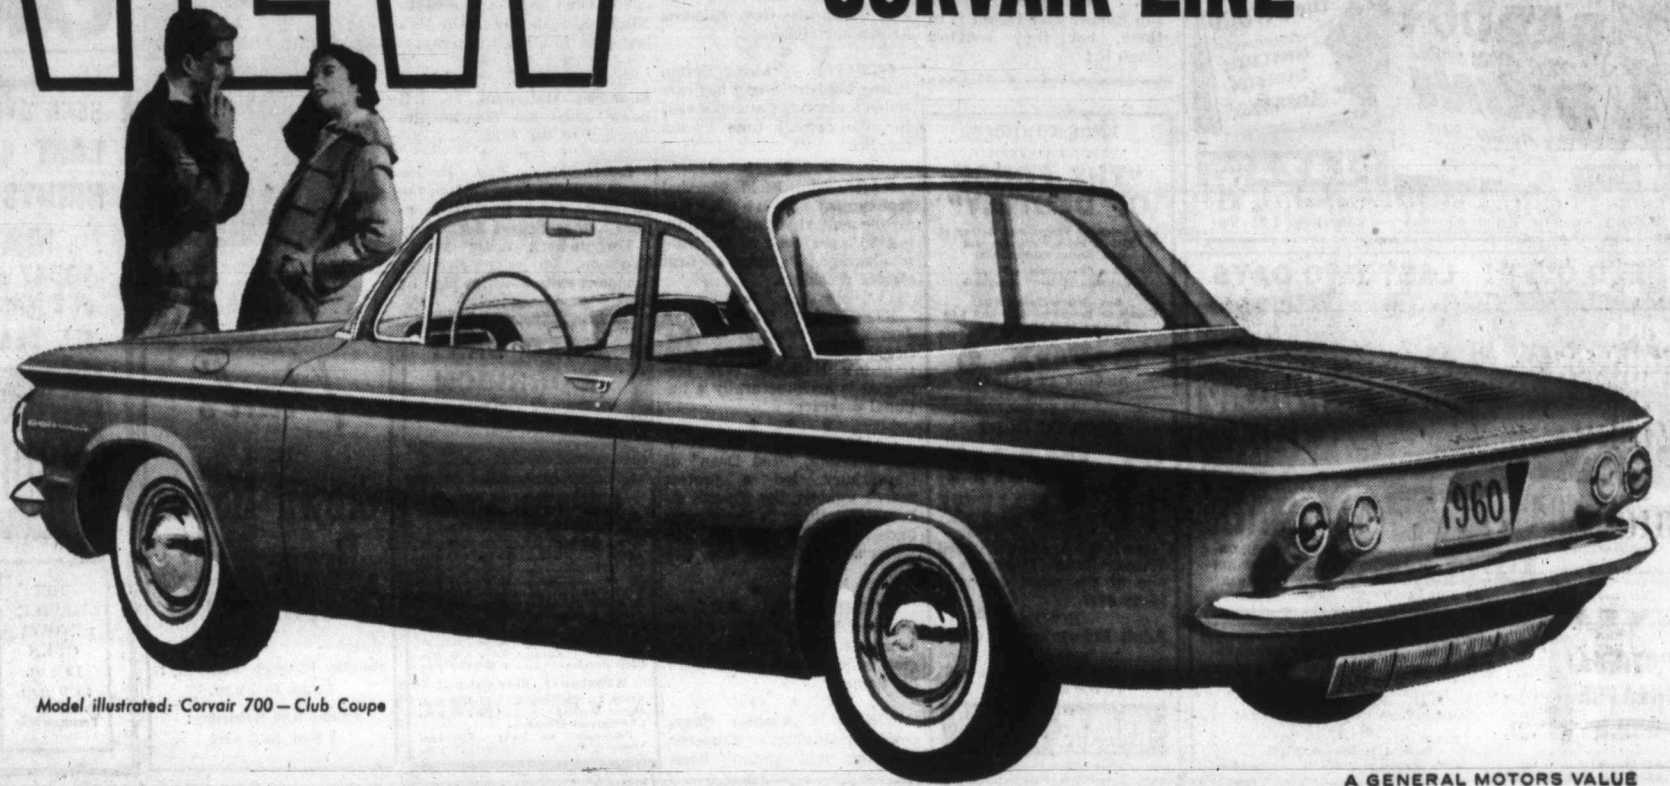

On Thursday he will address the B.C. Council of Women convention, students at Victoria College and a public meeting in First Baptist Church at 8 p.m.

2-DOOR MODELS ADDED TO THE REVOLUTIONARY CORVAIR LINE

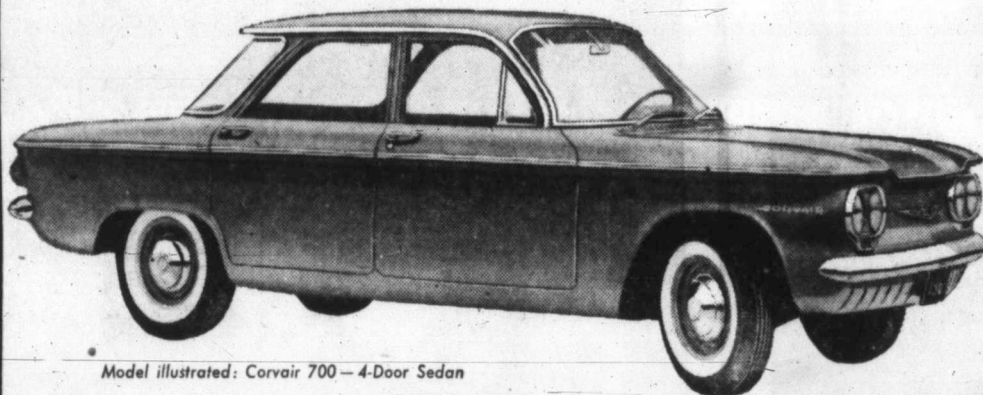

Model illustrated: Corvair 700—Club Coupe

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

ONLY CORVAIR OFFERS A CAR THAT'S SO SPORTY IN LOOKS AND ACTION... SO DOWN-TO-EARTH WHEN IT'S TIME FOR SHOPPING OR BUSINESS... AN EXCITINGLY NEW KIND OF CAR!

Now Corvair's renowned thrift and efficiency are available in handsome new 2-Door style. Exciting new Club Coupes inherit all of Corvair's superb qualities... and add some of their own. In fact, here is the happy answer for glamor-seeking young marrieds, convenience-seeking mothers, and economy-seeking businessmen. Style — Utility — Performance — Thrift — like all Corvairs, these Club Coupes have it all!

AND HERE'S THE 4-DOOR CORVAIR THAT'S SETTING THE PACE FOR COMPACT CARS ACROSS CANADA

Model illustrated: Corvair 700—4-Door Sedan

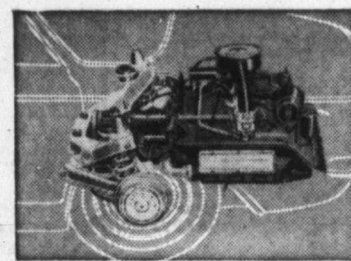

On thousands of roads and over hundreds of thousands of miles, people are saying: "There goes a Corvair!". And how they go! Since their introduction last fall, these family sedans have caused a revolution in the thinking of a vast group of car owners.

And small wonder! Corvair fits the pocket-book. It has lots and lots of room for everyone, and a virtually flat floor. Better still it has the power to take the hills without gear shifting — or even slowing down. Mother finds she can park downtown and dad gets a lot of fun out of driving, too. Why don't you try Corvair's whole new approach to family motoring? Make a date to drive a revolutionary Corvair today.

CORVAIR'S BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE STARTS HERE

In more ways than you'd suspect! Rear engine design gives greater traction and performance. This, plus a whole new car-balance, which creates such instant, easy response to the brake pedal and steering wheel that power assists couldn't do a thing more. (Men like the positive feel — women love the new handling ease).

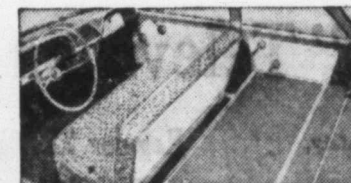

YOU'RE IN FOR A RIDE REVELATION

Corvair's 4-wheel independent suspension provides an entirely new riding experience — no matter what car you're now driving. The suspension at each wheel is designed to smother the bumps — leaving the body (and you) riding smooth and level. Coupled with Corvair's low, low centre of gravity, this new suspension gives a sparkling, unmatched roadability.

HERE'S ONE OF THE SECRETS OF CORVAIR'S AMAZING UTILITY

Fold down the rear seat and you have vast cargo space. But when it's time for play and pleasure, presto! — a quick lift snaps it into place to form a comfortable, roomy back seat.

But truly, there's only one way to get the entire story on these excitingly different Corvair Club Coupes — and on the whole revolutionary Corvair line. Make a date with your dealer to take a Corvair out on the road NOW.

Payola Stopped After $40,000

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Congressional payola investigators disclosed Tuesday four record distributing companies in Massachusetts handed out $40,472.54 over the last three years to 30 or more disc jockeys and other radio station personnel.

Gordon Dinerstein, vice-president of one of the firms, told a House subcommittee its investigation prompted his firm to stop making such payments.

"The very fact that a committee of Congress has chosen to look into this indicates we may have done something wrong," he said. "We considered it a general business practice."

The first provincial archivist in Canada was Thomas B. Akins, appointed in Nova Scotia in 1857.

Two Drown As Tug Run Down

HAMMOND, B.C. (CP)—The skipper of a sunken tugboat, Capt. Ronald Maxim, said Tuesday he threw lumber to two men thrashing in the water of the Fraser River, but they were swept away in the fog.

The men, missing and presumed drowned, were Paul Liddle, 23-year-old deckhand, and Ed Greenwood.

A runaway lumber scow caught the 36-foot tug Myrmidon II and ran the tug under water. Said Maxim: "I leaped onto the scow, but the others couldn't make it. I grabbed some of the lumber and tossed it to them, but they couldn't reach it."

Killer Like Mouse 'Tortured by Law'

Names In the News

LONDON — Stating "This man must not die," the London Evening Star says U.S. author-convict Caryl Chessman is "a mouse tortured by the cat of American law."

The Star quotes the UN human rights declaration, "No one shall be subjected to torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment," then adds, "Justice must always be swift and definite, not an agony drawn out over years."

In San Quentin, Chessman is "reconciled and calm" with execution due Friday after an 11-year legal fight. He has made a "final" appeal to Supreme Court—decision may come today—and still can ask California Gov. Edmund Brown for clemency.

OTTAWA — Ailing Italian Prime Minister Segni has called a planned Canadian visit for the second time in six months.

KARACHI — Field Marshal Mohammad Ayub Khan, strong-man ruler of Pakistan, got 95.7 per cent of the vote to become Pakistan's first elected president.

KINGSTON, Ont. — Alan Jarvis, ex-director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, says Canada's National War Memorial is architecturally a national disgrace.

CANTERBURY — Dr. Hewlett Johnson, "Red Dean" of Canterbury, led a protest march against the French A-bomb test through the streets here. Paraders were 10 women, eight men and one dog.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. — Defence Minister Peakes opened a new Canadian Legion building here which bears his name.

TOKYO — Princess Suga, youngest daughter of Emperor Hirohito, will marry bank clerk Hisanaga Shimazu Mar. 10, eight days after her 21st birthday.

MOSCOW — Russia has granted exit visas to Mrs. Barbara Armonas and her son Jonas, 20—mother and brother of Donna Armonas of Wickliffe, Ohio, who appealed to Nikita Khrushchev in the U.S. last year to allow the move.

LONDON — The British press roundly pans Girl on the Highway, a new play by Canadian author Ernest Borneman. Toronto-born critic Milton Shulman, in the Evening Standard calls it worst play of 1960.

Pact Gives Island Tug World Scope

Operation Continues As Before

By IAN STREET

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. last night announced its "association" with towing companies based in Montreal and New York and said the new deal would result in expansion of operations — based in B.C.

The agreement, signed yesterday in Victoria, follows months of negotiations. The deal involves transfer of an undisclosed amount of shares, according to company officials, but is neither merger nor outright sale.

SIZABLE INTEREST

Harold B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug, said local officers of the company have retained a sizable financial interest and operation of the company will continue as before.

"We are still very much interested financially," said Mr. Elworthy. He added the deal will make available heavy financial backing to ensure growth of the towboat operation kept pace with industrial expansion in B.C.

EASTERN COMPANY

Island Tug and its subsidiaries on the coast are now associated with McAllister Towing Ltd. of Montreal. The eastern company is owned by McAllister Brothers Inc. of New York and Sogomines Ltd. of Montreal and certain of its associated companies.

The official statement said: "The joining-hands of these two large towing and marine transportation concerns, with their extensive fleets of modern tugs, barges, scows and salvage equipment, will provide combined services extending from the Gulf of Mexico to Montreal through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes on the east coast, and from South America to Alaska on the west coast."

EXPAND SERVICES

It is the plan of Island Tug and McAllister to expand their towboat and barge services, with "particular emphasis" in the British Columbia area, and in world-wide ocean towing and salvage operations, the statement said.

Mr. Elworthy declined to comment further at this time on planned additions to the fleet operating in the Pacific.

30 TUGBOATS

Island Tug now owns and operates more than 30 tugboats including three powerful ocean rescue tugs—Sudbury I, Sudbury II, and Cambrian Salvor—and has a fleet of some 100 barges.

McAllister interests own some 50 tugs and 100 barges plus salvage equipment. They do all the ship-handling in the port of Montreal and work in the St. Lawrence Seaway as well. Their U.S. operations are based in New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk.

SIGNED YESTERDAY

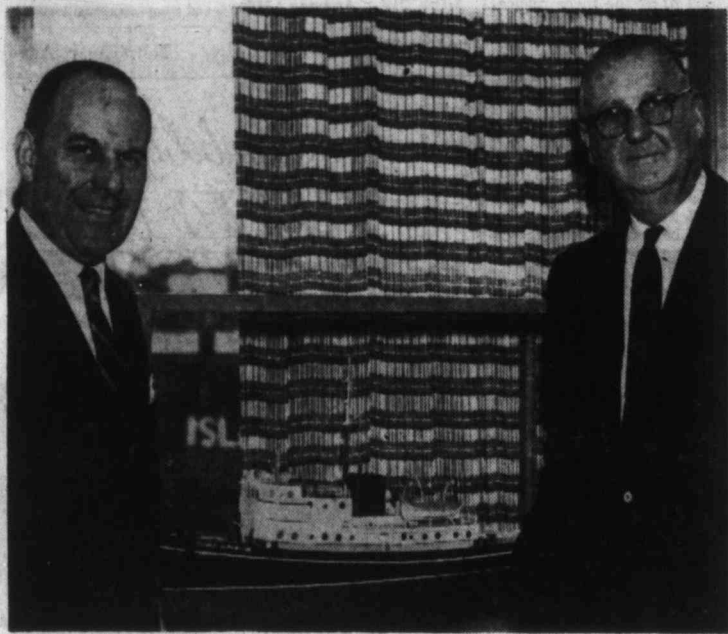

The agreement was signed here yesterday by Mr. Elworthy and James P. McAllister, president of McAllister Brothers Inc., New York, and the Montreal company. The Royal Trust represented the local company in negotiations.

The new deal "rounds out" operations of the two groups, officials said. The McAllister operations heretofore were "more or less local" in scope. They gain connections with Island Tug's far-ranging ocean rescue and towing operations while the local company gains eastern affiliations plus financial backing.

POWERFUL BOATS

Rapid expansion by Island Tug in the past year or so has seen acquisition of two of the world's most powerful tugboats, the sister ships Sudbury II and Cambrian Salvor.

Faith Needed

Unite Behind Disarmament Green Urges

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada must have faith in disarmament if this country is to make its greatest contribution to world affairs, External Affairs Minister Howard Green said last night.

UN Blames Israel For Clashes

DAMASCUS, U.A.R. (UPI)—A United Nations truce committee last night formally put the blame on Israel for recent troop clashes in the Syrian-Israeli demilitarized zone around the village of Tawafik, a United Arab republic military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the committee had decided to "condemn" Israel for having stationed military or semi-military forces in the demilitarized zone and for its "attack" on Tawafik last month.

The mixed armistice committee, headed by a Belgian colonel, supposedly includes both Arab and Israeli representatives.

Astronaut Will Land 'From 14-Foot Wall'

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the first earth-orbiting American returns from space he'll land at the same speed as if he had jumped off a 14-foot wall.

That's how George Low, chief of the man-in-space program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Tuesday described the return of the first astronaut for the space committee of the House of Representatives.

Low said the space capsule will be orbiting 120 miles above the earth at 17,500 miles an hour when the time comes to return to earth.

Mystery Flying Objects Confirmed

COLORADO SPRING, Colo. (AP)—A spokesman for the North American Air Defence Command here confirmed yesterday that unidentified flying objects were observed in the skies over Alaska early Monday morning.

One of the objects was reported in the vicinity of Nome. It appeared to be moving slowly in a north-easterly direction. The object disappeared without trace and without giving any indication of its size.

The second object was sighted at Unalakleet, moving rapidly northwest at a speed sufficient to produce contrails in the sky.

Whether the object exploded has not yet been determined but officials are making a search of the area.

Earlier, a silvery object beaming flames was reported to have flashed through the Alaskan sky late Sunday.

Free Vote?

Hanging Debate Assured

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker yesterday offered to set aside a second day for the debate on capital punishment scheduled to begin Thursday in the Commons.

If the debate on a bill of Frank McGee to abolish the death penalty was not completed Thursday and all parties agreed, the discussion could continue Monday, the Prime Minister said.

"If the House so determines, a vote could then take place," he told the Commons.

He gave no indication of the government's views on a "free" vote in which individual members would not be bound by party lines.

Under ordinary circumstances, McGee's measure would be debated for Thursday only with the probability of being "talked out" without a vote. An extension of the debate for a second day would probably permit both an extensive debate and a vote.

Questioned by Liberal House leader Lionel Chevrier, the prime minister said he understood that Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, the government's House leader, had suggested to Chevrier and a CCF representative that the debate be continued Monday if all agreed.

"If that suggestion has not been brought to their attention, I do so now," he said.

Royal Baby Expected 'Any Time'

U.S. Aids Canada To Atomic Power

OTTAWA (CP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will spend $500,000 in a new program of direct aid to Canada in the development of the Canadian-designed heavy water atomic power plant.

This was announced here Tuesday by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. following meetings in Washington between the U.S. commission and the Canadian crown company on an expanded program of co-operation between the two countries in the development of plants using heavy water.

The announcement followed criticism in recent months by outside experts of Canada's decision to build atomic power plants using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as

Thanks Critics

Premier Plans Trip to Britain

Premier Bennett said yesterday he wishes to thank all his critics who are referring to his budget as an election budget.

But he appeared to rule out an early election by saying he planned a trip to Great Britain in May and June.

He said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had a difficult time criticizing the budget.

"THAT'S WHY" He said that was why he had to yell.

He said a budget like this calls for an election. What does he mean by an election budget?

A budget that the people would vote for?

The premier denied Mr. Strachan's charges the government had underspent on its estimates by vast amounts.

"The truth is that two years ago the government spent more than the original estimates. Last year estimates where $284,041,000 and actual expenditures $280,425,000, just $3,600,000 less than estimated, or 1-1/2 per cent. The year before we spent that much more than estimated.

"That is pretty good budgeting," the premier claimed. He quickly changed the subject when a reporter started to suggest Mr. Strachan meant he had been diverting money scheduled for highways and social allowances to debt reduction.

NO SPEECHES Speaking of his trip, he said if his health is in good shape then, he will take with him his executive assistant Dan Ekman, economic adviser J. V. Fisher and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

Election Unlikely?

Premier Bennett returned to the legislature yesterday to present 10 bills for first reading.

"How are you today, Mr. Premier?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

"Feeling pretty good. I hear you made a good speech yesterday," replied the premier.

Mr. Strachan beamed. "But are you ready for an election?" he asked the premier.

"No," was the reply.

Gun That Haunts Officials

Gun that is haunting Canadian police is .22-calibre T-4 collapsible survival weapon used by the air force. Officials have raised a storm since guns were declared surplus and a fair number sold to public. High-velocity, semi-automatic gun held by Duncan correspondent Charles Thompson was purchased by a retired army officer in Duncan for private collection. Police fear cheap but highly efficient weapon might fall into hands of criminals and hoodlums.

Grade 13 Pondered In Alberni District

PORT ALBERNI—A full dress discussion of the feasibility of inaugurating Grade 13 in this district will take place Monday when the school board meets in committee. Administrators, Counsellors and school district superintendents D. G. Chamberlain will be asked to meet with the trustees for the discussion. Mr. Chamberlain said he felt that a decision should be made on the matter so that it could either be accomplished or be dropped for a time.

Close Decision in Port Alberni

Carrier Service Bid Put Off

Magna Rapped In Gas Appeal

NANAIMO — Richard M. Bond, president of Island Transmission Co. Ltd., has charged Magna Pipeline Ltd. with producing "inaccurate figures" for consideration of the Public Utilities Commission. This is the basis of an appeal being launched by Mr. Bond's company which, with Magna, applied to bring natural gas to Vancouver Island. Magna Pipeline was given the go-ahead by the commission. Mr. Bond said that if Magna's figures were brought to "realistic levels" the company would consistently lose money. He said Magna would be forced to charge higher rates.

ALBERNI—An application will be made by Alberni city council for extension and improvement of the post office although Postmaster-General William Hamilton had warned that such action would preclude any chance of mail delivery service in the city for at least 15 years.

The decision was made in a 4-3 vote Monday night following heated debate of the issue. Climax of the dispute came when Mayor Mabel S. Anderson failed in an attempt to silence Ald. T. S. Barnett and left the council table.

The mayor disputed Ald. Barnett's right to speak a second time on the issue and denied that council had authority to conduct a referendum vote on the matter of postal delivery.

Order was restored when city solicitor R. J. Ohs explained the limitations of the mayor's rights. The issue has hung fire for more than three years.

Following reading of all 1959 correspondence from Postmaster-General Hamilton to ex-mayor Jack Luckhurst, Ald. Blair took the lead in the debate with the statement that he opposed closure of Alberni post office to make way for letter carrier service. He moved that a request be sent to the postmaster-general for improvement and extension of present facilities.

Ald. Barnett said that the proper method of deciding the issue was by a plebiscite. He said he felt council had no right to direct the matter and that it was wrong to exercise any power.

"I feel the motion should be defeated or withdrawn," he said.

Rothmans expansion creates career opportunities for ambitious Canadians

Growing success in Canada offers immediate openings for executive minded men who reach for challenge

A Message from the President:

"As a member of the World's swiftest growing and most successful cigarette organization, founded in 1890 and established in Canada in 1957, we are proud to announce that the two intentions with which we came to Canada are on the threshold of fulfillment.

These were, first, to create here in a placid industry a dynamic new force staffed by Canadians and second, when success had crowned our efforts to offer stock participation to Canadians.

Now we seek to double our organization and are extending an invitation to vigorous Canadians to join us and share our progress."

J. H. Devlin

Road to Mainland Big Issue in '70, Says Gaglardi

Within 10 or 15 years a road link between Vancouver Island and the mainland will be under active consideration, Highway Minister P. A. Gaglardi predicted yesterday.

"I wager that within 10 years from right now, people will be talking about building a causeway," he told the Victoria Electric Club.

"By the time there are barnacles on the bottoms of those old ships (the new ferries) we'll be thinking of means of linking up Vancouver Island with the mainland."

That didn't mean he was starting tomorrow to train moles to dig a tunnel, he said, but a road link would be in the realm of economic possibility in 10 or 15 years and would someday, he was sure, be built.

The government ferries,

Mr. Gaglardi said, were going to bring "a fantastic number" of people to Vancouver Island.

"I'll tell you the increase in the amount of people coming to Vancouver Island in the summer time is going to be beyond anything you can visualize at the present time, I'm positive.

"It's only going to cost you $5. No, I don't know what it's going to cost you. But you can afford it."

The greater amount of vehicular traffic on the Island would necessitate construction of more highways, Mr. Gaglardi said.

The road to Tofino would be paved "in the not too distant future, I'm sure," and on the east coast, "it will be necessary to have a thoroughfare all the way up," and "I can see where we can have two or three ferry runs onto Vancouver Island."

He foresaw accessibility to the upper east coast "in the immediate future. I don't mean next summer, but not too many summers, I'm sure."

And "if we can go to Sayward and Port Hardy, we ought to be able to come in from Kitimat with another ferry run."

B.C. Worker 'Outproduces' Nine Japanese

CHEMINUS—Pat O'Neal, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said last night a B.C. worker produces nine times as much as a worker in Japan.

He made the remark after being asked about statements by Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) that labor and management will have to get together before they price themselves out of the world market.

"He should have looked at the statistics," said Mr. O'Neal. "There are only three other countries with lower labor costs and they are the Netherlands, Belgium and Norway."

"In B.C. workers produce nine times as much as workers in Japan, and their wages are only four and a half times as much," he said.

Mr. O'Neal made the remarks before the chamber of commerce during a speech criticizing Bill 43.

NANAIMO—Construction of Nanaimo's new regional hospital is expected to begin on schedule in October. Nanaimo General Hospital administrator Gordon Frith announced yesterday that tenders would be called in June or July.

The hospital will be five storeys high and contain 200 beds. Provision for expansion to 10 storeys with 400 beds is being made. It will cost about $4,600,000.

DUNCAN—Two cars were heavily damaged in an accident early yesterday a mile north of Duncan.

A car driven south on Trans-Canada Highway by Douglas Ford, of Bell-McKinnon Road, was struck on the left side while slowing to turn left. Driver of the second car, also headed south behind Ford, was Mrs. Engelina Bazuin of Nanaimo.

DUNCAN—Six high school students have won semi-finals and will compete Monday in finals of a contest that offers a free trip to Ottawa.

It will be the final heat of a public-speaking contest sponsored by the Rotary Club. The finals will be in Cowichan High School.

The students are Peter Armstrong, 17, of Shawinigan Lake School; Virginia Lefever, 16, Cowichan High School; Margaret Plester, 17, Cowichan High School; Joan Dunning, 16, Queen Margaret's School; Sharon Dougan, 17, George Bonner High School, and Elizabeth Irwin, 17, Lake Cowichan High School.

NANAIMO—Television does not interfere with reading in Nanaimo, library board chairman George Darling told city council.

He said that despite TV, more and more books were being circulated each year in this area.

A campaign is under way for a new library building. Public subscriptions amounting to $25,000 are required. Another $25,000 will be borrowed.

PARKSVILLE—Two resolutions regarding pensions were passed at a meeting of the Mt. Arrowsmith Canadian Legion branch.

Resolutions, to be presented at the next zone meeting, asked that the federal government raise ceiling on veterans' allowance and that recipients of war veterans' allowance remain eligible although they are receiving old age pensions.

PORT ALBERNI—District 70 school board on Monday night lopped $16,806 from the 1960 budget and authorized its submission to the department of education for approval.

The amount was taken out under protest and members of the board expressed the hope that the department would permit the items struck from the budget to be readmitted.

GANGES—Superintendent A. D. Jones submitted a report on schools of the district during a recent meeting here by trustees of School District 64.

The 1960 budget was finalized for presentation to the department of education, and the board decided to uphold a previous decision concerning a site for a fire hall.

PORT ALBERNI—Last week's rainfall measured 6.10 inches at McCoy weather station, bringing the total for the first six weeks of 1960 to 20.53 inches. Last year at the same time the figure was 16.30 inches.

Wettest day of the week was Thursday when 2.93 inches were measured in the 24-hour period.

Maximum temperature for the week was 50 degrees with a low of 30 degrees on Saturday.

Exemption Suggested

Donald Smith, (SC, Victoria) warned yesterday that Victoria, in common with many other cities, is heading for a slum district if older homes are allowed to deteriorate.

But, he said, if owners do any improvements they are immediately charged with increased assessments and consequently increased taxes.

PENALIZED NOW

"We have a Do It Now campaign to relieve unemployment, but as soon as you do it now, you are penalized now," he said.

He renewed his plea for a plan to give owners of older homes some sort of tax-incentive to improve their homes.

SEVEN-YEAR EXEMPTION

He suggested a plan where an owner would get a seven-year tax exemption on the value of improvements he undertakes as long as he retains title to his home.

He said he was pleased the new home-owner grant regulations will call for a widening of the provisions to include owners of apartment dwellings.

FREE BUS PASSES

He said there was a need for free bus passes for pensioners who would normally be shut up in one room.

He expressed pleasure that Recreation Minister Earle Westwood was giving some consideration to the province taking over Thetis Lake Park as a provincial park.

LOSE NO TIME

He said he hoped Victoria would lose no time in getting the very best architectural design for its proposed new civic auditorium, to which Premier Bennett has said the government will contribute.

'Very Upset,' Says Curtis

'Pennies for Peggy' Brings a Blush

Launched "to save the city further embarrassment," a Pennies for Peggy Packard fund yesterday gave promise of turning faces red all around.

"We're very upset about this stuff," said Ald. Austin Curtis, who was chairman of the royal visit committee which commissioned sculptor Peggy Walton Packard to produce a bust of Queen Elizabeth.

Mrs. Packard said she might have been a little rash in not opposing the drive.

And both Ald. Curtis and Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney said that it was based on misinformation: the campaign to collect a cent from everyone in Victoria to pay Mrs. Packard's $350 fee started out with the claim, "Six months have elapsed since sculptress Peggy Packard delivered to city council the concrete bust of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, which it commissioned last June at a fee of $350."

The bust was delivered Jan. 27. Ald. Curtis said; Mrs. Packard had sent a letter Jan. 15 saying the statue was ready and adding, "Interim account, $200," and as soon as a proper account was rendered, the city was ready to pay in full.

"And we certainly don't need the public to subscribe

pennies to help us out," he said.

"Before the end of the royal visit year we asked for a bill in full so we could finish it up properly," said Acting Mayor Mooney. "Certainly as soon as the bill is properly presented, it will be paid."

"They're pushing things a little too far," he added.

Saanich finance committee last night voted to ask council to call tenders for purchase of a municipal ambulance which will cost an estimated $13,000.

The recommendation came following a statement by Fire Chief Joseph Law that people injured in Saanich are often taken to hospital in police vehicles which "are little better than trucks."

He said he had worked out an arrangement with Saanich Police Chief W. A. "Bert" Pearson whereby the fire department would take over the municipality's emergency ambulance service formerly operated by the police.

Interested Groups Invited To Tour with Edgelow

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow has invited "all interested groups" and individuals to join him on a tour of the "entire area" involved in the controversy over a powerline easement in Thetis Lake. "The city engineer and I will guide them all through the whole area—not just a part—at any time they see fit," the alderman said last night.

Shouting Match

Thetis Issue Put on Ice

Report Sought

The burning question of granting a powerline easement at Thetis Lake was put on ice yesterday.

In a meeting which briefly became a shouting match between Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and M. H. Mooney, the question was put aside pending a report from city officials on the best use of the Thetis Lake property—a report which City Engineer James Garnett said might take two or three months to prepare.

QUICKLY ACQUIRED

Before this decision was made, a B.C. Electric spokesman had told the joint meeting of city council parks and waterworks committees that one of the reasons the company wanted the easement along the edge of the property was that it could be acquired more quickly than privately owned property.

The shouting match started after Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow claimed the public had been misinformed by the conservationists—"You can use the sympathy of the public, and I think it's unfair to mislead it in any way."

Ald. Mooney, maintaining the property should be held as a park—and recreation ground, asked if there should then be a "powerline through the centre..."

'OH, NOW!'

"Oh, now!" flashed Ald. Edgelow, rising. "That's a false statement, precisely what I meant."

"It's sure not going around the outside!" Ald. Mooney said.

"You're an irresponsible alderman. That's an irresponsible statement," shouted Ald. Edgelow.

"I'd like Ald. Edgelow to tell me, has he some connection, he so positively wants them to go through there?" said Ald. Mooney.

ORDER RESTORED

Then order was restored, and Ald. Edgelow said he had felt the granting of the easement for $5,200 was in the best interests of the taxpayers of Victoria, and could do no harm in such a remote area.

"My decision was made that way, and I felt I wasn't going to change my mind through the pressure of groups other than Victoria taxpayers," he said.

Pending receipt of the report, the committees shelved the question of offering the property again to the provincial government.

Ambulance Sought In Saanich

Saanich finance committee last night voted to ask council to call tenders for purchase of a municipal ambulance which will cost an estimated $13,000.

The recommendation came following a statement by Fire Chief Joseph Law that people injured in Saanich are often taken to hospital in police vehicles which "are little better than trucks."

He said he had worked out an arrangement with Saanich Police Chief W. A. "Bert" Pearson whereby the fire department would take over the municipality's emergency ambulance service formerly operated by the police.

TV-Teaching Group On the Spot Today

Greater Victoria school trustees will have to talk convincingly today if television classes are to start this year at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Representatives of Greater Victoria councils will meet the school board this afternoon to discuss the school board's $7,902,429 budget, and one of the items under closest scrutiny will be the $19,500 for installation of and operation of the pilot television system.

And, because the department of education has now said it will not contribute financially to it, chances of the plan being approved have diminished.

If any one of the four Greater Victoria councils says no, the money can't be spent. City council was told at its last meeting. At that time, majority of aldermen appeared opposed to spending local taxpayers' money on the experiment.

ISLAND TUG SIGNS BIG PACT

Base Still B.C.

By IAN STREET

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. last night announced its "association" with towing companies based in Montreal and New York and said the new deal would result in expansion of operations based in B.C.

The agreement, signed yesterday in Victoria, follows months of negotiations. The deal involves transfer of an undisclosed amount of shares, according to company officials, but is neither merger nor outright sale.

SIZABLE INTEREST

Harold B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug, said local officers of the company have retained a sizable financial interest and operation of the company will continue as before.

"We are still very much interested financially," said Mr. Elworthy. He added the deal will make available heavy financial backing to ensure growth of the towboat operation keeps pace with industrial expansion in B.C.

EASTERN COMPANY

Island Tug and its subsidiaries on the coast are now associated with McAllister Towing Ltd. of Montreal. The eastern company is owned by McAllister Brothers Inc. of New York and Sogomines Ltd. of Montreal and certain of its associated companies.

The official statement said: "The joining-hands of these two large towing and marine transportation concerns, with their extensive fleets of modern tugs, barges, scows and salvage equipment, will provide combined services extending from the Gulf of Mexico to Montreal through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes on the east coast, and from South America to Alaska on the west coast."

EXPAND SERVICES

It is the plan of Island Tug and McAllister to expand their towboat and barge services, with "particular emphasis" in the British Columbia area, and in world-wide ocean towing and salvage operations, the statement said.

It continued: "The Elworthy family and present personnel of the company will continue to manage Island Tug and Barge Ltd."

30 TUGBOATS

Island Tug now owns and operates more than 30 tugboats including three powerful ocean rescue tugs—Sudbury I, Sudbury II, and Cambrian Salvor—and has a fleet of some 100 barges.

McAllister interests own some 50 tugs and 100 barges plus salvage equipment. They do all the ship-handling in the port of Montreal and work in the St. Lawrence Seaway as well. Their U.S. operations are based in New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk.

SIGNED YESTERDAY

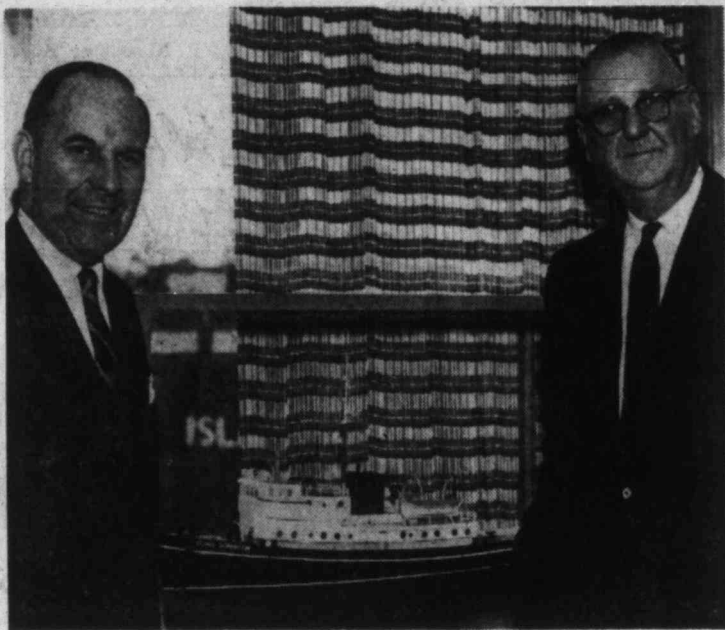

The agreement was signed here yesterday by Mr. Elworthy and James P. McAllister, president of McAllister Brothers Inc., New York, and the Montreal company. The Royal Trust represented the local company in negotiations.

The new deal "rounds out" operations of the two groups, officials said. The McAllister operations heretofore were "more or less local" in scope. They gain connections with Island Tug's far-ranging ocean, rescue, and towing operations while the local company gains eastern affiliations plus financial backing.

POWERFUL BOATS

Rapid expansion by Island Tug in the past year or so has seen acquisition of two of the world's most powerful tugboats, the sister ships Sudbury II and Cambrian Salvor.

Unite Behind Disarmament Green Urges

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada must have faith in disarmament if this country is to make its greatest contribution to world affairs, External Affairs Minister Howard Green said last night.

UN Blames Israel For Clashes

DAMASCUS, U.A.R. (UPI)

—A United Nations truce committee last night formally put the blame on Israel for recent troop clashes in the Syrian-Israeli demilitarized zone around the village of Tawafik, a United Arab Republic military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the committee had decided to "condemn" Israel for having stationed military or semi-military forces in the demilitarized zone and for its "attack" on Tawafik last month.

The mixed armistice committee, headed by a Belgian colonel, supposedly includes both Arab and Israeli representatives.

Pension Planned For Mrs. Sloan

A bill to provide a $3,500.55 annual pension to Mrs. Nancy Sloan, widow of the late Hon. Gordon Sloan, was introduced in the legislature yesterday by Premier Bennett.

The premier explained at a press conference the pension is the same she would have received from the federal government had the former chief justice died before he had resigned to take on the job of B.C.'s chief forestry adviser.

"We regret exceedingly the federal government would not grant this pension," he said. "The chief justice was one of our great citizens. He was only in our direct service for a year."

Green also sharply attacked the Liberal opposition for attempting to weaken NATO, for "baiting the British," and charged that Liberal leader Lester Pearson was "out of touch" with world affairs.

Green said it was "very unwise" for Canadians to look upon the disarmament talks with pessimism. "Let us have faith that a disarmament agreement can be reached."

U.S. Aids Canada To Atomic Power

OTTAWA (CP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will spend $5,000,000 in a new program of direct aid to Canada in the development of the Canadian-designed heavy water atomic power plant.

This was announced here Tuesday by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. following meetings in Washington between the U.S. commission and the Canadian crown company on an expanded program of cooperation between the two countries in the development of plants using heavy water.

The announcement followed criticism in recent months by outside experts of Canada's decision to build atomic power plants using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as

Election Unlikely?

Premier Bennett returned to the legislature yesterday to present 10 bills for first reading. "How are you today, Mr. Premier?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. "Feeling pretty good. I hear you made a good speech yesterday," replied the premier.

Mr. Strachan beamed. "But are you ready for an election?" he asked the premier. "No," was the reply.

Free Vote?

Hanging Debate Assured

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker yesterday offered to set aside a second day for the debate on capital punishment scheduled to begin Thursday in the Commons.

If the debate on a bill of Frank McGee to abolish the death penalty was not completed Thursday and all parties agreed, the discussion could continue Monday, the Prime Minister said.

"If the House so determines, a vote could then take place," he told the Commons.

He gave no indication of the government's views on a "free" vote in which individual members would not be bound by party lines.

Under ordinary circumstances, McGee's measure would be debated for Thursday only with the probability of being "talked out" without a vote. An extension of the debate for a second day would probably permit both an extensive debate and a vote.

Questioned by Liberal House leader Lionel Chevrier, the prime minister said he understood that Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, the government's House leader, had suggested to Chevrier and a CCF representative that the debate be continued Monday if all agreed.

"If that suggestion has been brought to their attention, I do so now," he said.

Beachcombers Live It Up

FLORENCE, Ore. (AP)—Beachcombers had a field day Monday and Tuesday when large sections of a refrigerator van loaded with bottles and cans of beer and ale washed ashore here.

That is pretty good budgeting," the premier claimed. He quickly changed the subject when a reporter started to suggest Mr. Strachan meant he had been diverting money scheduled for highways and social allowances to debt reduction.

NO SPEECHES

Speaking of his trip, he said if his health is in good shape then, he will take with him his executive assistant Dan Ekman, economic adviser J. V. Fisher and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

The trip will not be a speech-making trip, but rather one of conferences, he said. He wants to learn more about how to co-operate with Great Britain, and to encourage British capital and industry to

Thanks Critics

Premier Plans Trip to Britain

Premier Bennett said yesterday he wishes to thank all his critics who are referring to his budget as an election budget.

But he appeared to rule out an early election by saying he planned a trip to Great Britain in May and June.

He said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had a difficult time criticizing the budget.

THAT'S WHY

"That is why he had to yell. He said a budget like this calls for an election. What does he mean by an election budget?"

A budget that the people would vote for?" The premier denied Mr. Strachan's charges the government had underspent on its estimates by vast amounts.

"The truth is that two years ago the government spent more than the original estimates. Last year estimates where $284,041,000 and actual expenditures $280,425,000, just $3,600,000 less than estimated, or 1 1/2 per cent. The year before we spent that much more than estimated."

Canada Fine With NATO

OTTAWA (UPI)—Defence Minister George Pearkes said yesterday he was told in France last Saturday that Canada was living up to its commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Pearkes told the Commons his weekend trip was to review with NATO commander Lauris Norstad Canada's contribution.

U.S. Aids Argentine Warships

PUERTO MADRYN (UPI)

—Argentine warships last night made fresh sonar contact with one of two hunted submarines in the Golfo Nuevo and attacked it with powerful American-made depth charges, officials said.

The action brought to an abrupt halt speculation that both unidentified subs, which have been hunted for the past 19 days in the Golfo Nuevo and adjoining Golfo Craker, had managed to escape into the open Atlantic. Last officially confirmed contact with the hunted vessels came Sunday.

TRAIL PICKED UP

Officials said the new sonar soundings indicated that the Argentine ships had picked up the trail of the underwater vessel which is known to have a damaged propeller from previous attacks.

It was learned on authoritative sources that the patrol ship King was first to detect the sub moving slowly along the bottom of the gulf. The King attacked and later was joined by the Murature.

REACHED VESSEL

According to one source, the Murature believed its charges had reached the vessel, but there was no confirmation of this.

Hitherto, the navy had been limited in the chase by outdated depth charge devices effective only to a range of 40 or 50 fathoms. Last night, however, the patrol ships were using modern, more powerful devices flown in last week by the U.S. Navy.

ON WAY

A team of U.S. Navy anti-submarine experts also were on the way to join the hunt as technical advisers after arriving in Buenos Aires earlier.

The scene of the hunt is on the Patagonian coast, 650 miles southwest of Buenos Aires. Argentine ships cut the waters of the Golfo Nuevo in circular patterns, dropping the drum-shaped depth charges with their powerful explosives. A full 90 per cent of the Golfo Nuevo patrol was centred at the north end near the mouth opening into the Atlantic.
